BRITISH LABOR CABINET DECIDES TO RECOGNIZE SOVIET

Washington, Jan. 25. (INS.)—Recognition of the Russian Soviet Government by Great Britain will not affect the policy of the United States toward Russia, it was announced officially at the State Department today.

The principal objection of this government to the establishment of diplomatic relations with Russia is the alleged efforts of the Moscow authorities to propagandize against American interests.

By DAVID M. CHURCH
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

London, Jan. 25.—Great Britain's cabinet has decided to recognize the Russian Soviet Government as soon as possible. It was officially announced by the foreign office this afternoon.

Decision to extend recognition to Moscow was the first official act of Premier Ramsay MacDonald's new government.

Great Britain probably will be the first great power to recognize the Soviet Union.

It is understood the Government has tentatively selected James O'Grady, Laborite member of Commons as the British Ambassador to Moscow when recognition is formally extended.

The British Labor Party was officially on record in favor of Russian recognition even before it came into power.

Following the Trade Mission negotiations were in progress before MacDonald became premier but were interrupted by the death of Lenin on January 21. They will be resumed in a few days to determine the conditions upon which recognition will be made.

If recognition takes the form of a League of Nations treaty it will have to be ratified by Parliament. In this event there may be a coalition of Liberals and Tories against recognition. This would put the new Labor Government in a precarious position. Moderates within the Labor party feel that two of the conditions should be recognized by the Soviet Union: the Russian debt and payment of indemnity by Moscow.

DAYLIGHT DRIVE ON PHILADELPHIA VICE STARTED TODAY AT 9

Philadelphia, Jan. 25. (INS.)—Smedley D. Butler's 48-hour daylight drive on vice and crime in this city began at 9 o'clock this morning with the police department rifle squad and their way into the new director's "basket of undesirables."

A verified information that joints generally closed were operating in daylight. The General said tonight: "I have given the lie to the notion that their districts must be cleaned up. This is a serious undertaking and I'm going to be taken seriously or else get rid of those who think this campaign is a huge joke." General Butler also intimated that tonight he may spring a surprise unprecendented in police annals.

"I won't say what it will be," he declared, "but when it happens, some of us are going to get a terrible shock."

In a pre-battle talk late yesterday Butler, his face red with rage, denounced the lieutenant who had joined before him as having failed to clean up their districts as thoroughly as they had reported.

Charges "Black Tom" Explosion to Germany; High Files Its Claim

Washington, Jan. 25. (INS.)—Claiming that the famous "Black Tom" explosion in Jersey City in 1916 has been traced to the instigation of the German government, the Lehigh Valley railroad company today filed a claim for damages with the German-American Mixed Claims Commission for $6,492,405.60.

The petition filed by the railroad today asserted that since 1916, its investigators have diligently endeavored to fix responsibility for the disastrous explosion and fire, and only within the last sixty days have they unearthed legal proof that the terminal was destroyed by agents of the German Government and at the specific order of the German Government.

The proof cited by the railroad was not submitted today, but leave was asked for its presentation at a later date.

The losses covered by the amount asked includes loss to common carriers using the terminal, damage to property stored therein, damage to other property in New York City, Jersey City, Bayonne, Newark and elsewhere and expenses of the investigation, most of which the petitioner has borne.

NEWS NUGGETS

MORE THAN ONE WAY OF KILLING A CAT

Harrisburg, Pa., Jan. 25.—The February payrolls of the State Game Commission today revealed that Charles Baum, Penbrook, a game protector who was refused $300 as "expenses" for a fine assessment against him, has now been given an increase for that amount. The change is made by the bureau of accounts of the State Department which fixes salaries of state employees. Baum's salary is increased from $2,100 to $2,400.

Baum was arrested and convicted on a charge of poaching firearms. He was fined $300 and included that item in his expense account. Auditor General Samuel Lewis on the advice of the Attorney General's department refused to honor the item on the ground the commonwealth was not liable for infractions of the law by its employees.

Lewis will now be compelled to honor the increase for a like amount.

CHICAGO CLUB WOMEN WANT MABEL'S STORY

Chicago, Jan. 25. (INS.)—Mabel Normand, film actress, will make her first public appearance upon her complete recovery before a gathering of Chicago club women who have asked to hear her story of the shooting by her chauffeur of Courtland S. Dines, her rich "playmate." A letter to this effect was received here today from the actress' secretary.

FALL, HAGGARD OF FACE AND BROKEN IN SPIRIT, TELLS TALE

By KENNETH W. CLARK
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

Washington, Jan. 25.—Haggard of face and obviously broken in spirit by the succession of ugly charges that have been hurled at him in the last two weeks' ex-secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall struck back at his accusers today with what he declared to be the "true story" of the famous $100,000 loan.

"There was no connection whatever between the $100,000 loan I received from Doherty and the lease he obtained for Naval Reserve Lands in California," Fall told International News Service.

He referred to testimony of E. L. Doherty, president of the Pan American Petroleum Company, before the Senate Public Lands Committee investigating naval reserve leases to private interests. The Oil Magnate declared he loaned Fall the $100,000 on November 30, 1921, on a promissory note, and that no mention has been made since that time about payment of the loan.

"I loaned him (Fall) the money because he has been a warm personal friend of mine for 30 years and I was happy to do this favor for a friend, especially as I could easily spare the money," Doherty said.

The loan was made only shortly before Doherty got the lease for the 37,000 acres in the Elk Hills, Calif., reserve. The money was sent to Fall in Washington, from New York in cash carried in a little black satchel by Doherty's son.

Fall's Statement

"Mr. Doherty loaned me the money because of the years of unbroken friendship between us," Fall added. "Besides, it was in gratitude for the many things I and no one else, had been able to do for him in Washington during the involvement of his Mexican properties by the war in that country."

"He never gave me the money on account of any oil leases."

Fall also denied flatly that he borrowed any large sums other than the $100,000 from Doherty. The impression was gained by some members of the committee from the oil man's testimony that there might have been a second $400,000 inasmuch as Doherty said "the cost of buying the Harris ranch and improvements on his own ranch exceeded $100,000." He declared Fall asserted the purpose of the loan was to purchase the adjoining ranch, not mentioning installations on the ex-Secretary's own ranch which were said to have cost about $80,000.

"I did not get any money from Harry F. Sinclair," Fall said.

"I did not get any money from Edward B. McLean. The one thing I

Mellon Reiterates Claim American Business Loses By Present Tax Schedule

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

Washington, Jan. 25.—A fresh chapter was written today in the now famous Mellon-Couzens tax correspondence concerning the merits of the tax reduction plan which the secretary of the Treasury has proposed.

In another letter to Senator Couzens, Republican of Michigan, his fourth in as many weeks, Mr. Mellon described Senator Couzens' reasoning processes as "unique" and reiterated his contention that American business is being mulcted and retarded by the present surtaxes on big incomes.

Mellon completely ignored, however, Couzens' recent challenge to reveal the extent of his personal wealth and disclose how much he personally would profit by the reduction of these surtaxes he has proposed.

Not even indirectly did Mellon refer to this "demand" of the Senator, nor to the similar demands made by Democrats in Congress that he reveal to the country the extent of his personal fortunes.

He contented himself today with answering Couzens' diatribes against the "millionaire" and with defending his reticence to Senator Couzens' own wealth, estimated at between $35,000,000 and $40,000,000.

"The case (against high surtaxes) is really too plain for argument," said Mellon. "All business involves risk. If business loses the government shares not at all in the loss, if business is successful the government takes more than half the gain. What can long with it and the odds?"

"You may argue your theories as you please, but neither you nor any other man, once he has gained wealth, cares to take these risks on these terms. The spirit of initiative may still be there, but the ungodly system of taxation is driving it into idleness. We shall become a nation of followers, not leaders."

A tax system having this inevitable effect must be changed.

"You, certainly as well as anybody, must have appreciated the killing effect of these high surtaxes on business initiative."

What possible influence other than these high surtaxes caused you to invest so much of your fortune in tax exemptions?"

Mellon ironically suggested that his letters to Couzens had been in vain.

Senator Couzens has only himself to blame, Mellon said, for bringing his own, Couzens', holdings of tax exempt securities into the discussion. He denied, inferentially, that he had consulted the secret records of the Treasury Department to ascertain the Michigan Senator's tax status, and asserted he drew his deductions only from Senator Couzens' own revelations that in one year he paid more than $7,000,000 income tax.

"Your case is not unique," said Mellon. "There are many other men in similar situations. What you have

GEORGIA WOMAN TO HANG FOR THE SLAYING OF HER MOTHER-IN-LAW

By B. V. SUFFIVANT
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 25.—Fully composed and without expression of the slightest emotion, Mrs. Ida Hughes, young slayer of her aged mother-in-law, Mrs. M. C. Hughes, today stood in the Fulton county court room and heard Judge Howard say in a low distinct tone:

"You shall on March 14, hang by the neck until dead, and may God have mercy on your soul."

She looked straight into the eyes of Judge Howard as he read her fate and then nodded to her lawyer as if to say "That is all."

With this the doomed woman arose and drew her cloak closely around her body, and left the room.

There was no weeping, no sobbing—no demonstration of any kind. The death sentence seemed to come more as a part of some daily routine as far as she was concerned.

Mrs. Hughes shot her mother-in-law to death here on the afternoon of Sunday, Dec. 30.

She will be the third white woman to meet death by hanging in Georgia. The other two were executed years ago.

Pittsburgh, Jan. 25. (INS.)—A cold wave, sweeping out of the northwest, was due to reach Western Pennsylvania tonight.

Thermometers will drop to 10 degrees during the night, weather forecasters here said, and will hover around that point tomorrow and Sunday. The peak of the cold wave will not reach the eastern sections of the state until tomorrow night, they said. Snow was expected to accompany the drop in temperature.

SHORT AND BIGLER SEEK ELECTION AS McADOO ELECTORS

With This Team at the Democrat Convention Clearfield County Will Be Up In Front Row.

BOTH WELL KNOWN

Editor John F. Short, of the Clearfield Republican, and one of the leaders of the Democratic party in Central and Western Pennsylvania, will be a candidate for delegate to the Democratic national convention from this, the 23d Congressional District, at the coming April primary election.

Mr. Short is one of the sponsors of the movement looking to the lining up of Pennsylvania's 80 delegates for William Gibbs McAdoo for the Democratic nomination for the Presidency and will look to be sent to the national convention to assist in furthering Mr. McAdoo's candidacy in that convention.

Mr. Short's political ability and wide acquaintance among the Democrats of the nation by reason of his attendance at every convention of his party since 1916 will especially equip him for the place and also serve to give this district real recognition at the national convention.

There will be two delegates from the 23d Congressional District, which is composed of Cameron, Centre and Clearfield counties, and the other delegate will come from one of the other three counties. Already Hon. Robert Foster, of State College, and Dr. F. K. White, of Philipsburg, have been mentioned as Centre's representative.

Ex-Postmaster James G. Paul, of Bradford, is also considering being a candidate, but as Centre and Clearfield counties cast a large majority of the Democratic vote for the district, party leaders in these counties feel they should have the representation at New York in June.

Jim Reed, Of Missouri, To Announce Candidacy For President Tomorrow

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 25. (INS.)—Senator James A. Reed, Democrat of Missouri, will arrive here from Washington within 48 hours to announce formally his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for President, it was reported by Reed's supporters.

Headquarters will be opened in St. Louis with Reed's former senatorial campaign manager, E. H. Glen in charge, it was said.

HEARING HELD TO DECIDE WHO SHALL RE-BUILD BRIDGE AT CURWENSVILLE

Burgess E. S. Erhard, President of Council, R. F. Penn and about two score other leading citizens and taxpayers of Curwensville were in attendance this morning at the hearing in the arbitrator's room of the Court House before County Viewers A. G. Kramer, E. D. Blotter and H. A. Rowe, on the question of the replacement of the bridge over Anderson Creek in the borough of Curwensville connecting Filbert and Anderson streets in said borough. In addition to the Curwensville people their attorney John C. Arnold, the County Commissioners, their attorney John M. Chase, Md. County Controller Woodward and Attorney A. H. Woodward also participated in the hearing.

It will be remembered that the bridge over Anderson Creek at the point mentioned collapsed and dropped into the creek last October. The bridge, a light iron structure, had been erected under direction of the County Commissioners in 1889 but its maintenance was an obligation upon the borough of Curwensville.

When the question of replacing the bridge arose there was some difference of opinion among county and borough officials as to who was liable for the expense of erecting the new bridge. The matter finally got into the courts and the county viewers were directed to go upon the ground, determine the necessity for the new bridge and establish the liability for its rebuilding.

It was in pursuance of this assignment that the meeting of the viewers was held today. The borough of Curwensville is financially unable to bear any part of the expense of erecting the proposed new bridge and the fact of this financial embarrassment was brought out by Attorney Arnold in his examination of the borough officials who testified at the hearing.

Burgess Erhard was the first witness called. He testified as to the collapsing of the bridge, which he said was a structure of one 120-foot span, with a driveway and foot walk along one side.

Attorney Chase questioned the Burgess regarding the feasibility of accommodating the public using such bridge by building a road down the right hand bank of Anderson Creek to connect with the bridge leading to the South Side of Curwensville. Dr. Erhard said the distance was 1500 feet and the road impracticable and almost impossible to build, as it would necessitate not only crossing the B. & P. track at grade but would involve necessary the taking of a part of the right of way of the railroad, while part of such road would have to be blasted out of the rocky side of the mountain.

County Commissioner Weimer added to this testimony by stating that the Commissioners had looked into the possibility of such a road and had been forced to give it up as impracticable.

President of Council Penn was then sworn and gave testimony as to the condition of the borough's finances, which he stated was not very healthy. He said the total valuation of all property in the borough for tax purposes was $669,640. The tax rate for general borough expenses was 14 mills, while the total borough millage was 28 mills. Their present indebtedness is $39,750 or within $1,000 of the constitutional 7 per centum limitation. In addition to the borough millage they had a 25-mill school tax with a $500 head tax for school purposes, with the school district up to its constitutional debt limit. They were up against the proposition of repaving the main street through the town proper, while they also had 6000 feet of state road on the Lattin-to-the-Sea Highway they had to Coach Mitchell has worked them hard and late. Starting with a squad of twenty players, shifting from one team to the other and from one position to another, he has finally succeeded in organizing a fast aggregation. In last evening's game between the Scrubs and the Regulars some exceptionally good team work and fast passing and shooting was displayed. When the Regulars got to giving they scored almost at will. North, Brown and Smith kept something doing in the front part of the court continually, while Kurts, Hile, Davis and Knapp held down the other half in great style. Howe was unable to get around last evening but will be in the lineup Saturday. The preliminary game at 7:15 will be played by the Flying Five, a Y. team, and the High School Freshmen. The big game is scheduled for 8:15. The visitors are rated as a fast amateur team, and have guaranteed to give the locals a good game.

FALL HAGGARD

In all this unhappy situation it is that I said I did get money from Mellon and I am ready to apologize for having said it."

Senator Caraway, Democrat of Arkansas, charged that Fall suddenly came into possession of $100,000 after the loss of Doherty and Sinclair, although it was shown he was not able to pay taxes before the losses were made.

To clarify these charges, the committee summoned Fall to appear Monday.

The decision to delay Fall's appearance until next week was reached after committee members had conferred with the secretary's physician.

"Fall is in no condition to testify yet," the physician said. "He needs a couple of days rest. He is worn out and fatigued by the trip from New Orleans. Fall is a very sick man and any untoward excitement might prove disastrous to him. Some time ago I recommended that he go to Bermondsey to recuperate. I fear for his health."

Fall was under the constant care of his physician's staff. He was staying at the home of Col. J. W. Zevilly, Marquette's right hand man, but the physician expected to send him to the country or to a more secluded part of town to prepare for the ordeal on Monday.

"My patient will appear on Monday unless he has a turn for the worse and it is necessary to send him to a hospital," the doctor said. "He wants to testify and I will let him if he is able."

Fall's doctor, Dr. John Wharton issued the following official statement at 11:30 o'clock.

Upon examination this morning I find that Secretary Fall has developed congestion in the chest and is suffering from a severe cold contracted on his journey from New Orleans.

"He has a fever and I have ordered him to remain in bed for the time being."

Washington, Jan. 25. (INS.)—In addition to the $100,000 in cash which he borrowed from Edward L. Doherty, multi-millionaire oil magnate, ex-Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall also secured from Col. J. W. Zevilly, a business partner of Harry F. Sinclair, the sum of $25,000 in Liberty bonds in the autumn of 1921, Zevilly testified this afternoon when he appeared as a witness before the Senate pollution committee in its investigation of the oil leases negotiated by Fall.

The money, Zevilly declared, was given to Fall for the purpose of making a trip to Russia in the interest of the Sinclair people.

The parents of both the High and the Junior High schools attended a physical educational exhibition and a conference at the High School auditorium this afternoon.

ago, one in 1850 and the other shortly before the civil war.

All others convicted since that time have had their sentences commuted.

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 25.—Another woman slayer will hang in Georgia. Today Mrs. Ida Hughes will be carried before Judge G. H. Howard and hear her sentence—death by hanging. It is the price she will pay for slaying her mother-in-law, Mrs. M. C. Hughes, here a little more than a month ago.

It was a brief trial. Little time was consumed in presentation of evidence and less in the arguments. When the jury, after three hours of deliberation, marched into the courtroom the defendant was not present. She had retired to her cell.

Judge Howard left the courtroom earlier because of illness but council for the state and defense agreed to hear the verdict.

The words that meant so much to the woman slayer were "guilty of murder without recommendation for mercy," this meant death in Georgia.

Frank Hughes, husband of the defendant and son of the slain woman, turned pale and trembled when he heard the verdict. He is jointly indicted for the same crime.

pend considerable money on for maintenance. Then, too, the State Health Department had held up all sewer extensions until the borough had completed a sewage system plan, which would cost them in the neighborhood of $20,000 more. He said it was simply impossible for the borough to replace the bridge and asked that this be done by the county.

Mr. Hes said he believed the bridge or a more adequate structure to the needs of the traveling public could be erected at a cost of from $2,000 to $15,000.

The County Commission's action stated they had already gone on record as being willing to assist in rebuilding the bridge, but now were of the belief, from the knowledge even of the financial condition of the borough, it would be up to the county to replace the bridge.

In response to a query from Attorney Arnold, Chairman Kramer stated the viewers would have their report and plans for the bridge ready by Tuesday of next week and Mr. Arnold said he would then be in shape to present the matter of the rebuilding of the bridge to the February grand jury for their approval on Wednesday, February 6th.

Mellon concluded by stating that the government is collecting less revenue under the 50 per cent surtax than it did under a 13 per cent surtax and reiterated his arguments against tax exempt securities.

Joint-Ease is the name, so-called because it is compounded solely for the purpose of relieving all joint ailments.

Just rub it on the tormented, lame joints and in just a few seconds it will penetrate to the bone and blessed comfort comes quickly.

It absorbs instantly and is so clean and stainless that you can rub it on often and get thereby, results much more quickly, when the joint is inflamed and the agony intense.

Being such a powerful counter irritant, it cannot help bringing speedy and helpful results in congestion, sore throat, chest colds, lumbago and neuralgia much quicker than almost any remedy you can buy.

But you must remember that it is for joint afflictions that it is mostly dispensed and its helpfulness will astonish you after all ordinary liniments and other treatments have failed.

TO-TAKE REFERENDUM ON MERCHANT MARINE

Farmers Favor Any Quick Means of Reaching Markets.

A referendum to get the opinion of farmers on the American merchant marine will soon be taken by the American Farm Bureau federation.

Gray Silver, legislative representative of the federation, and other members of the farm delegation visiting Europe, held two conferences with Chairman Farley of the shipping board, while crossing to Europe recently on the Leviathan.

Following these conferences Mr. Silver issued a statement which in part is as follows:

"The American farmers strongly favor an adequate American merchant marine for reasons common to all classes, and for reasons peculiar to their business. We are obviously interested in good highways, good and efficient railroads and in coastwise and in internal waterways, in deep sea shipping and in every other means of reaching our market economically and quickly.

"As to the means by which we are to build and maintain a prosperous merchant marine, such as we need, I cannot assume to speak for the farmers of the United States. After our return from Europe, the American Farm Bureau federation proposes to take a referendum of its membership on that question, which will doubtless determine our position regarding such national policies and legislation as may be asked for, in order to establish and effectively maintain a balanced merchant marine of adequate size under the American flag."

Pending his return to the United States and the formation of his policy, Mr. Farley has asked Mr. Silver to transmit his views to the membership of the federation.

Mr. Farley's statement, in part, follows:

"An American merchant marine is as vital to the agricultural interests of the country as to the manufacturers."

"Our country today is producing a surplus of agricultural products which must be marketed abroad. The American farmer, through organizations like the American Farm Bureau federation, is seeking new markets. The foreign service of our steamship companies will prove of the greatest assistance in locating purchasers of our agricultural products. It is the business of the steamship company to obtain cargoes. Its representatives can be relied upon to use their utmost endeavors to place American products in the hands of the consumers of other nations."

"The American people were brought face to face with the need of an adequate merchant marine in 1915 and 1916. They then saw the world markets for their products rise, but at the same time they found it impossible to supply these markets or control the situation because of the fact that we had no merchant marine able to transport our goods except at the will of belligerent nations who ordered us here, there and everywhere; in fact, we were told along what course the ocean we must operate. Such a condition is distasteful to Americans, but must exist so long as we are not the possessors of a fleet ourselves. It cannot last. We will have a merchant marine. The question then remains: How soon—five or twenty five years?"

CO-OP POLICY IN MISSOURI

Adoption of Program Was Principal Feature of Farm Bureau Federation Convention.

The adoption of an agricultural co-operative marketing program was the principal feature of the sixth annual convention of the Missouri Farm Bureau federation, held in Jefferson City recently.

The marketing resolution adopted at the meeting was as follows: "We recognize that our marketing problems cannot be solved by local effort alone and that we must co-ordinate our plans and join our forces with those of other states as is being done in the organization of cotton, tobacco, live stock, etc., and it is now our purpose to lend assistance to the organization and strengthening of such community enterprises."

The Missouri Farm Bureau will proceed at once to establish a co-operative system of marketing eggs and poultry.

As to wool, fruit and grain it was recommended that the Missouri Farm Bureau federation hold itself ready to organize such commodities as rapidly as farm sentiment demands.

Charles Barron was elected president, Col. L. M. Monroee was re-elected vice president, Mrs. W. O. Redford, Johnson county, J. H. Bethune, Clay county, were chosen as directors in the American Farm Bureau federation.

Scrub Live Stock Is Drag on Pocketbook

There Are Still Many Farmers Who Use Scrub Sires.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The desire of practical live stock owners as well as agricultural workers to take an active part in spreading the message of "Better Sires—Better Stock" is evident from frequent letters received by the United States Department of Agriculture.

"I am in the cattle business," a Montana stockman writes, "and use pure bred sires, but there are still a good many people using scrub bulls in this part of the country. I would gladly work in conjunction with someone in getting the people interested and show them the great results from using pure bred sires, and for all time do away with the scrub animal which is such a drag on the pocketbook."

This live stock owner asked how better stock work is conducted in other places and was given that information. A Montana farmer who also desired to participate in the work reported that he was disposing of his last grade bull.

The manager of a large live stock farm in Montana recently notified the department that he had sold his scrub bull, which is to be replaced by a pure bred, and henceforth all his live stock breeding operations will be on a strictly pure bred sire basis. Eastern states are similarly active.

Universal Panaceas Are Likely to Be Worthless

No "stock feed" can be made which will cure all the ills that animals are heir to any more than an unfailing panacea for human ills can be put up in bottles and sold for so much per.

The specialist in live stock sanitation at the New York State College of Agriculture at Ithaca points out that the use of these stock feeds is not discouraged so much because there is something harmful in them, as because they are likely to be quite worthless.

These "stock feeds," he declares, are of much less value than the food that the farmer mixes himself for his stock. It is significant, he says, that almost invariably the directions accompanying these remedies and feeds say that careful attention to sanitation and feeding conditions must be observed during treatment.

Most stock feeds and tonics upon analysis are found to contain a large percentage of common salt, a laxative such as opium salts, glasser salts, or the like; sulphur; charcoal or other form of carbon; sulphate of iron as a liver vermifuge; and usually a filler by way of sulphur, oilmeal, scrapings, grade feeds, peanut shells, sand or rancid. Usually a very small quantity of a mild drug, like gentian, pepsin, ginger or pepper, is found.

Big Value of Genetics to the Animal Breeder

The chief value of genetics to the animal breeder lies in the elimination of false ideas and myths concerning breeding facts and results," declares R. A. Brink of the genetics department at the Wisconsin College of Agriculture.

In the plant-breeding field, it is possible to apply genetic knowledge more extensively than in the breeding of the higher types of animals because of the ease and economy with which plants may be grown.

"The fur-bearing animal breeder can very profitably use a knowledge of genetics in securing crosses which result in the best colors, markings and length of hair. In all cases, genetics promotes clearer thinking on the part of the breeder," Brink declares.

General Farm Notes

Make the farm buildings as ratproof as possible.

Plan the places where the manure will be applied this winter.

Provide a box stall and special feed and care for every cow at freshening time.

If crimson clover is to be grown on land for the first time the seed should be inoculated.

The "recently" agency hardest task is serving the man who "don't want no body to tell him nothin'."

Make plans for remodeling your dairy barn so as to make it an efficient, healthful stable at least expense.

Loyalty to a co-operative association is a real test of the farmer's character and of his pride in the farming business.

Increase the grain fed to each cow slightly and watch record sheets to see if there is a profitable increase in milk flow.

Study fertilizer needs for next year and the prices and analyses of fertilizer materials. You can save money by doing this.

The "one-year" system of farming—do thought for soil or woodland, up-building—is probably more harmful than the so-called "one-crop" system.

LEGION MAN IS IN BASEBALL

John J. Sullivan, Author of Blacker Resolution, One of Purchasers of Seattle Club.

A fast baseball club for Seattle is one of the aims of John J. Sullivan of Seattle, an active member of the American Legion. He has joined Wade Killefer, formerly manager of the Los Angeles club of the Pacific Coast league, and Charles J. Lockard, well-known Washington business man in the purchase of the club. Harry Wolverton, ace-of-managers of pennant-chasing ball clubs in the West, was selected to lead the club.

Sullivan was born in Massachusetts, but preferred the thrilling environment of the West to the classic surroundings of Cape Cod. He arrived in Seattle in 1904 and set about to complete his education in law in the University of Washington. A poor boy, Sullivan paid his way through the school by holding down a job in the post office. After his admission to the legal profession, he became assistant United States district attorney, and later assistant to the attorney general in Washington. In this legal capacity he served as counsel in many of the most important cases in the West, among them being the prosecution and ultimate conviction of I. W. W. members, who shot down four members of the American Legion in Centralia, Wash., on Armistice day, 1920. Eleven of the thirteen accused men were convicted. Another case of importance with which Sullivan was connected was that of the defense of Madelyn Obenshain and Arthur Burch, accused of the slaying of J. Belton Kennedy, who were freed after three juries had failed to convict them.

Sullivan's connection with baseball originated when he participated in the case of the Seattle Pacific Coast league club against gamblers who sought damages from park owners for their election. The Supreme court ruled against the gamblers, the decision now being frequently used to invoke the right of eviction in other cities. On winning this case, Sullivan associated himself with the new park owners of the Seattle baseball club, and is out to help win the pennant.

During the war Sullivan was an enlisted man in the military intelligence section, playing a prominent part in the settlement of strikes among government workers in the Northwest during the war. He was one of the incorporators of the American Legion, when congress officially established the organization. He was the author of the "alien slacker" resolution adopted by the Legion, and was named to head the Legion's first national committee on the Japanese question.

LEGION IS AN AID TO LABOR

President of Illinois Federation Praised Work of Former Service Men's Organization.

Praise of the work of the American Legion in behalf of the laboring man was voiced by President John Walker of the Illinois Federation of Labor at a recent state conference of Legion commanders and adjutants of Illinois.

"Unionism is indebted to the Legion for the fight you waged against unrestricted immigration which prevented the dumping of foreign hordes upon our shores to destroy the standard of living and of wages," he said. "No union man can help but feel grateful to you for this."

President Walker showed how much a part of one another the Legion and Federation are by quoting some figures:

"In the first war," he said, "there were 680,000 American fighters bearing union cards. But if there had not been a trade unionist in that war, union men could not help but stand for the same principles that are contained in your constitution."

"You have pledged your co-operation in two endeavors of unionism to wipe out illiteracy from this country, and in the campaign for Americanism. A bill has recently gone through the legislature raising the educational requirements of children who have to work from the sixth to the eighth grades. Another law provides kindergartens for poor children and another an education for crippled children. There is a bill now pending to reclaim the mentally defective children."

President Walker declared that at the next convention of the Illinois Federation of Labor he would call to the attention of the executive committee the relationship of labor and the Legion and predicted that labor would back the Legion 100 per cent.

ODDS AND ENDS AND THINGS

By J. D. C.

John Celenski, of Tyler, was a visitor to Clearfield this morning. John was hunting law, and he had a real tale of woe to tell. He lives over the hill from Tyler proper. The principal coal operation at Tyler is removing the coal in the aforesaid hill. The tippie is in the village proper, while an opening off the main heading is located in the side of the hill near the Celenski home.

During the deer hunting season a young Italian from Tyler was coming in tired from a long day's hunt. He was so tired that he decided to make the final lap home through the mine opening, where he could step along at grade instead of climbing up one side of the hill and down the other for twice the distance.

The hunter stopped at Celenski's house to borrow some carbide with which to stock his acetylene miner's lamp in order to light his way over the short cut through the mine. When he went to the door of the house, the carbide borrower leaned his loaded high-power rifle up against the house at the door while he went inside. While Mrs. Celenski was getting the carbide the rifle fell to the porch and the hammer striking the floor discharged the shell in the barrel. The bullet went through the wall of the building and struck Celenski, who was sitting in a rocking chair in the front room, in the right thigh up close to his body, badly shattering the bone and crippling him for life.

Celenski had been a patient in the DuBois hospital, since the accident and his first trip, after being able to get out, was to Clearfield where he consulted District Attorney Arnok with a view to having the gun owner arrested for causing his injury.

Some fearsome tales come out of the Frenchville country from time to time and occasionally you get hold of one you could hardly get yourself to believe, unless you'd happen to know the fellow spinning the yarn has a habit of telling the truth. Here is one of that latter kind that we are going to slip over. We received the following letter yesterday:

Frenchville, Jan. 22, 1924.

Dear Odds and Ends—I saw in your paper the other day a story concerning a flock of wild geese that flew over this section sort of between seasons and noted the controversy between the two old "weather" shakers over it. But there is no use getting "het up" over a few wild geese, when down here, we can give you even better evidence that spring is close at hand. Up in these mountains where we hear the frogs croaking we know spring is just around the corner. One evening the fore part of last week a bunch of boys from up Buck Run were on their way to Frenchville and distinctly heard a frog lifting up his voice in his first croak for the spring of 1924.

The robins have been chirping around here already and we were just getting ready to get in our bare feet when the present cold snap hit us.

Yours truthfully,

L. R.

COMMUNITY CENTER AT BISHTOWN

A Bishop Lansberry, of Bishtown, in his quiet unassuming way has been doing one of the worth while things of life.

Over his storeroom is a large hall that has been used as a gathering place for the people. Recently Mr. Lansberry decided to furnish it for a Sunday School room. He put in a heating system, bought the old pews from the West Side M. E. church, and sent for a full Sunday School equipment and started a flourishing graded Sunday School.

The room will probably be used also as a community center.

TOO MANY BANKS

The epidemic of bank failures in certain sections of the West, into which the Federal Reserve Board and the War Finance Corporation are now making inquiries, is not caused wholly by agricultural difficulties, such as reduced land and produce prices. An important cause, which should be considered in helping the banks of that region, is the fact that there are too many banks.

It is reported that there is a bank for every 800 people in the state of North Dakota. Since not all of the 800 in any instance are well to do, there is obviously not enough business to go around and to support all the operations of all the banks.

A permanently bad situation cannot be treated as an emergency, and the government has to go slow in advancing funds to aid institutions which can never hope to maintain themselves even in better times. A lot of those small banks ought to combine.

AN ANTI-GUNMAN LAW

There is some hope, at least, for the protection of honest citizens against gunmen, in the bill introduced in Congress by Senator Copeland, at the suggestion of the chief magistrate of New York City.

This measure seeks to prohibit the importation of revolvers and automatic pistols and to impose a heavy tax on such weapons manufactured in the United States. It would also place an almost prohibitive tax on cartridges.

Such legislation has been recommended by two international conferences of police chiefs and by the American Bar Association. It is in line with suggestions made for several years past by the American press generally. It is not an attack on any vested interest; and though the immediate effects might be annoying to manufacturers of deadly weapons, that would be amply compensated by the immense benefit likely to accrue to the public as a whole.

Almost every violent crime is accomplished with the aid of a pistol. That is what gives the gunman his false courage, and does the killing. Police everywhere agree that if the criminals were disarmed, there would be only a small fraction of the present volume of robberies, hold-ups and murders.

Objections to legislation against such weapons have been based mainly on the fear that they would disarm self-protecting citizens while leaving gunmen armed. Experienced policemen reply that as matters stand, there is little protection in defensive "gun-toting", and that it is not impossible to disarm the criminals by strict regulation of the manufacture and distribution of pistols and cartridges. With the ammunition under legal control, pistols now in the possession of crooks might be rendered harmless.

The traffic in weapons of slaughter could never be absolutely ended, but there is no reason for believing that it would not be greatly lessened, and the modern type of criminal rendered comparatively harmless, by such a remedy as Senator Copeland's.

What Your Ambition

Men who are earning no more than yourself are buying their own homes, seizing business opportunities and making profitable investments.

The systematic accumulation of money in a bank account makes all of these possible. Moreover, it is a good investment in itself.

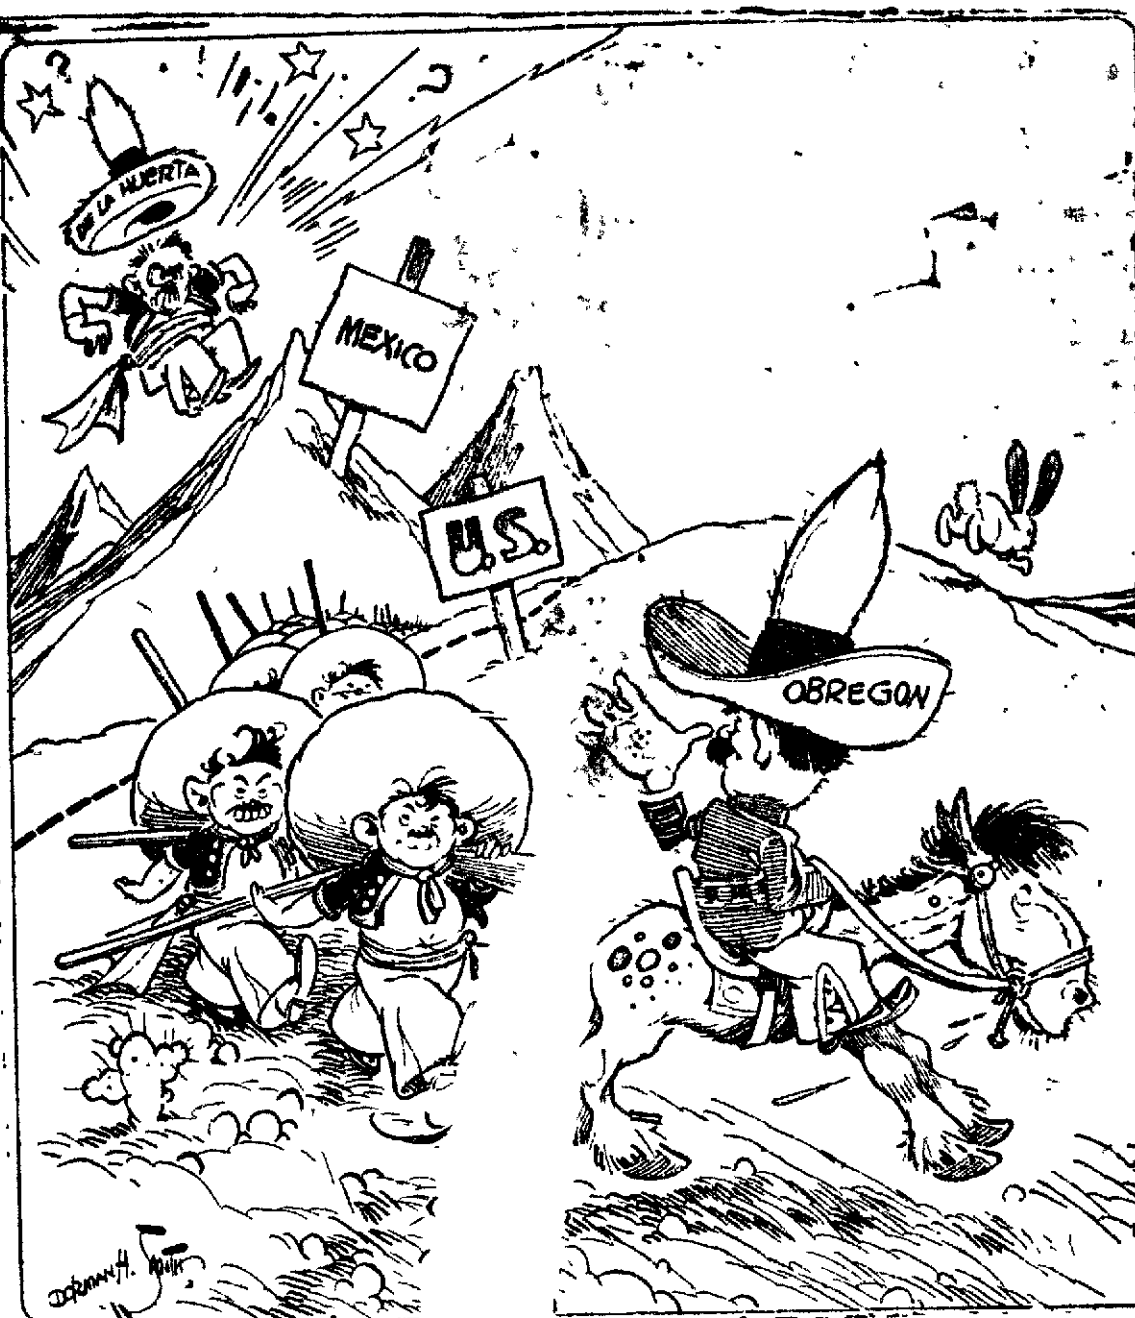

The man who fails to save does none of these things.

BACK TO FATHER

By FLORENCE DAVIES

Dr. Alice F. Blood is president of the American Home Economics Association, as well as being head of the home economics department of Smith College. All of which would indicate that she ought to know something about running a house, even if she is a college professor.

From her jobs one wouldn't expect her to be a radical; but she is. Why, she's advancing the most radical ideas we've heard in a long time, really revolutionary, some of them. This one, for instance:

"For heaven's sake," she cried, "why don't folks use common sense? Then which, you will admit, nothing could be more revolutionary."

And again: "We need less highbrow theory in home management, and a lot more plain commonsense. You can't live on romantic love and marshmallows and French pastry."

Honestly doesn't that make you want to give three good cheers for Dr. Blood? But wait a minute; this one may not strike you housewives as quite so good:

"A wife has no more right to ask her husband to wash the dishes than he has to ask her to do his work."

Still, it's logical, you must admit.

"Colorums" Break Loose Again, Causing General Wood Much Annoyance

Nanila, Jan. 25. (INS.)—The Colorums, a fanatical organization, have succeeded in reaching the Mindanao mainland from the island of Surigao and have cut communications between the towns of Placer and Mamit, where they are reported recruiting followers, burning and pillaging.

Governor General Wood is ready to send more reinforcements to the constabulary and possibly regular scouts if the revolt spreads. Governor Wood's yacht is speeding 150 constabulary to Surigao. The superstition that Rizal, Philippine national hero, has come to life is gaining wide credence in many sections.

HAVE SWAPPED OFFICES

During the first of the year changes about the Court House District Attorney Arnold and County Controller Woodward got together and swapped offices. Woodward got the best of the dicker as he traded the small private office across the hall from the County Commissioners formerly used by the Controller for the larger of the two rooms heretofore making up the official home of the District Attorney.

The district Attorney now has the small room he maintained as his private office, together with the office formerly occupied by the Controller, while that office will be found in the last office in the row and next door to the Arbitration room.

Of course, we know the old argument man's work is done by daylight, while a woman has to keep on forever, so why shouldn't somebody who's got nothing to do, pitch in and help her out? Yes, it's a good argument, if you can make your husband see it.

But here's a little bit of Dr. Blood's logic for father too:

"For making good American citizens out of children, there's nothing beats the good old fashioned spanking. If the father doesn't spank in the home, the world is going to do the spanking later—and the world spans harder than any parent ever spanked in the world. You can't have a successful home without discipline any more than you can have a successful army without discipline."

Why, what antiquated philosophy. Did I say she was radical? I take it back; Dr. Blood is a reactionary. She would have us all go back to elemental things, to fundamental ideas of father and the family, back to the days when father was the head and center of the home and mother loyally backed him up. The good old days, the days of the simple life. Commonsense, Dr. Blood calls it, and there's bound to be a vast difference of opinion as to whether or not they aren't one and the same thing.

Washington, Jan. 25. (INS.)—Claiming he was discriminated against because of his color E. J. Crosby, a negro physician of Detroit, today filed a complaint with the Interstate Commerce Commission, asking $120,000 damages against the Seaboard Air Line, Southern, Louisville and Nashville and the St. Louis San Francisco railroads, and the Pullman company. He charged that these companies at certain times during 1922 and 1923 did not give him the same accommodations accorded white passengers in violation of the Interstate Commerce Law.

THREE CRITICALLY INJURED IN SECOND BOBSEID ACCIDENT NEAR WARREN, PA.

Meadville, Pa., Jan. 25. (INS.)—Three of the five boys, injured last night in the second serious bobseid accident here in two days, were reported in a critical condition today. The victims, injured when a bobseid carrying 10 persons crashed into an automobile, are: Carl Stadler, 16; Earl Swartz, 14; William Snakely, 14; James Horne, 20, all of Meadville, and Garrett Myers, 18, of Warren, Pa., a freshman at Allegheny College here. Stadler, Swartz and Snakely suffered fractured skulls and probable internal injuries. Their recovery, physicians say, is doubtful. The others suffered only minor hurts.

Tomorrow is BRUSH DAY

Renew Those Worn-out Brushes Round Your Home

A brush is something that you keep passing up, even though it may be worn out—it's one of those things that seem to be neglected round the house until someone puts up a strenuous kick.

We are making tomorrow brush day and with the very wide assortment of brushes we have here you'll find just what you want to replace that worn-out brush at home.

HAIR BRUSHES

Here we have that brush for milady's "hundred strokes" for the good of her hair. We have brushes that are stiff; brushes that are limber. Then too, we have just the brush to make Jack's unruly hair lie straight.

$1.00 to $6.00

CLOTH BRUSHES

They're so handy to have where you hang your clothes. The bristles are stiff enough to take out the spots and will give the ordinary cloths a thorough brushing.

75c to $1.00

NAIL BRUSHES

Here is a variety of brushes for cleansing the nails which will dig right down in and get the dirt. Some of them are rounded with two kinds of bristles. Some have handles so you can have a secure grip on them.

25c to $1.00

BATH BRUSHES

Here is the brush that makes the bath complete. It has the long handle with silky smooth bristles that will not irritate the skin but it will cleanse thoroughly.

$1.25

TOOTH BRUSHES

Here we have to offer some of the nationally advertised kinds along with a wide selection of other kinds. There are brushes to meet your requirements and the prices are such that you should not longer bother with that old one.

25c 35c 50c

SHAVING BRUSHES

We have 'em here with the bristles set in rubber which gets away from that nuisance of mixing bristles with your lather. There are plain handles and fancy handles—stiff and "bendy" bristles.

50c to $3.75

WHISK BROOMS

These do not come under the category of brushes but they should be in every hutch. We have them of a fine corn which will be stiff enough to get the dust and dirt out but not strong enough to injure the fabric.

50c and $1.00

GENTLEMAN'S BRUSH SETS

These are ebony backs with bristles in the brush to do the work it is supposed to do. Two military brushes, one hat brush, one cloth brush, all in fine flannelette case.

PATTERSON-KIRK

Mr. Robert Patterson of Pera M., Pa., and Miss Marjorie E. Kirk of East Waterford, Pa., were married in the Methodist parsonage, Woodland, Tuesday evening, January 22d. The Rev. G. R. M. Reidell, pastor of the church, and also a former pastor of the bride, performed the ceremony. Mr. Patterson is the junior member of the firm Patterson Bros., merchants in a thriving center of Juniata county, this state. He is also prominent among the athletic, fraternal and financial circles of his county. Mrs. Patterson is the beautiful and accomplished daughter of J. H. Kirk, merchant at East Waterford, Pa. She is prominent among the social circles of her native town and county, being also an active worker in the Methodist Church at that place. After a tour of the west they will reside at Alexandria, this state, where a new store will be opened by the firm of which Mr. Patterson is a member.

Worth While Invitation.

An invitation to a wedding in Cairo is an important event, because instead of being asked for a ten-minute church ceremony or a brief reception, the invitation reads "for three days." Originally a deamster was a judicial officer in Scotland, who formally pronounced the doom or sentence of death on condemned criminals. The name is now given in the Isle of Man to two judges, who act as chief justices of the island.

Combinations in Soap.

The principle of soap-making is always the same and is based on the combination of fat and an alkali, as in the case of tallow and lye. Variations in soaps are largely due to additions of perfumes, coloring matter and such substances, which have nothing to do with the primary purpose of soap, which is to cleanse.

ANOTHER LETTER

FROM A FIREMAN

Clearfield, Pa., Jan. 24th, 1924

Dear Sir:

I hope you will give these few lines space in your paper.

I notice in your paper of tonight's issue, Tuesday, Jan. 24th, of Firemen asking for a Triple Combination Pumper to be placed in No. 1 Hose House, on account of the present steam pumper being useless to them as it stands now.

The Elk Hose Co., of the 4th Ward, asked Council a few years ago, probably not quite so long ago, for a Triple Combination Pumper to be placed in the Elk Hose House on Daisy street. I have been expecting to hear of this, since the Elk Hose Co. was turned down and presented with another, instead of what was asked for.

The committee which was selected by the Elk Hose Co., I. G. Johnson and T. W. Carlson to present the matter to the Borough Council. The committee explained to them the importance of Clearfield were practically all in the Fourth Ward of Clearfield and also that they had less water pressure in their end of town, than in other parts of the borough.

What is to become of the present steam pumper when No. 1 gets their new Triple Combination? I suppose it will be placed alongside of the two drawn hook and ladder wagon, which is standing, or on exhibition at the Clearfield Driving Park, as a relic. I am in favor of a Triple Combination Pumper, but I believe in fair play. I am a fireman and a member of the Elk Hose Co.

The National museum says that for short-distance running the cheetah is the fleetest of animals. This animal belongs to the cat family, and is long and slender of body. It is found in India and Africa and is trained to run down antelopes.

A Fish of the Fish?

An odd fish of the fish of the fish recently was discovered north of Manila by a herring detachment of United States marines. They fly upon looking kites, with baited hooks at the end of the tails every evening about dusk. They fish for bats in the air.

Consolation.

It's a mighty good thing that you don't get enough to set the river on fire for in that case what in the world would the fishermen do for a place to put the time away?—Atlanta Constitution.

The Industrious Bee.

The bee has two distinct stomachs. In the first it stores away the honey from the flowers until such time as it is ready to yield it up, while the other stomach is used simply and solely for digestion purposes. When the bee is ready to deposit the honey it contracts the muscles of the stomach and the honey is ejected through the mouth.

Heard Not All Gutenbergs. Printing is said to have been introduced to the world Aug. 14, 1437. John Gutenberg stands at the head of the early typographers, supported by the genius of Schoeffer and the generous patronage of Faust. Gutenberg used only blocks, and to Schoeffer is due the movable type cast from matrices. Caxton, who introduced the art into England, began life as a trader, but learned printing at Cologne. The first printed book on record is "The Psalter," which John Faust and Schoeffer published at Metz in 1457.

Willing to Help the Needy.

A famous woman teacher, eighty years old, was sitting on the veranda of a college dormitory in her wheel chair. A student had just brought her some ice water in her silver mug and the teacher had finished drinking it when some tourists came up, saw her sitting there holding out her cup, and they dropped a half dollar in it. Imagine their feelings when they discovered who the "beggan" was!

Nature's Color Scheme.

Imagine the grass of the field and the leaves of the forest created blue, or magenta, or scarlet. Instead of green! Some speculative scientists think the foliage of the planet Mars is red, and that the people there are seeing red continually. It would not be difficult to believe that keeping the peace on this good green earth is not as hard as it would be had our planet been painted red in the beginning.—Minneapolis Journal.

The Thoughtless Answer.

A certain Kansas City physician will never know just how near death he was the other day when, after a thorough examination of probably the brightest, sweetest and altogether supreme nine-months-old baby in the world, the mother asked, "Well, what do you think of my baby?" and he said, "Oh, it's a normal child."

Washington a Thorough Farmer. Washington was a good farmer and always wanted to learn. As America had produced no books on agriculture at that early date, he was forced to try many experiments. The year when he was busy with the making of the federal Constitution he experimented with oats, his dairy cows.

Cathedral Resembles Grass Hill.

Of the world's cathedrals, probably the most curious is that which crowns a hill in Uganda. In appearance it resembles nothing so much as a mountain of grass although on closer inspection one is able to see that mud and wood have been extensively employed. The structure can accommodate 4,000 people.

Snow and Fireflies.

The oriental is always and ever picturesque. The student of the East does not "burn the midnight oil." He works by snow and fireflies. There is an ancient legend about a Chinese student who was too poor to buy oil. So in the summer months he studied all night by the light of fireflies caught and imprisoned in a paper lantern, and in the winter by the reflection of the snow.—Gertrude Emerson in World Outlook.

New Idea in Transportation.

A "locotractor" has been developed for use in Africa. The weight of the car and cargo is supported on metal rails, but the vehicles are driven by rubber-shod wheels running on prepared strips of road metal on each side of the tracks. This arrangement is said to be very effective.

Cossacks Claim Rodeo Idea.

To prove their contention that the wild west stunts of the rodeo were offshoots of the Russian Cossack training, Prince Gurev, Colonel Kereoff and Captain Natroff visitors from Russia, recently took part in a rodeo program of horsemanship, doing in their Cossack manner many of the daring stunts exhibited by the cowboys.

Steel Magnetism.

The United States bureau of standards says: "Place the steel within a solenoid or between the poles of a direct-current electromagnet and subject it to the influence of a gradually decreasing magnetic field which is being reversed at a comparatively low frequency, approximately one or two cycles per second being most satisfactory."

New York's Indian Reservations. There are Indian reservations at Erie, Cattaraugus county; Onondaga reservation at Onondaga; Oneida reservation, Syracuse; St. Regis reservation, Franklin county; Shinnecock reservation, Southampton L. I.; Tonawanda reservation in counties of Erie and Genesee, and the Tuscarora reservation in Niagara county. Some of these reservations are quite large, running up to 7,500 acres. They are open to visitors almost any time.

His One Wish.

Mrs. Honey—"I can read you like a book, William." Mr. H—"Then I wish you'd do more reading and less questioning."

MRS. HARDING GIVEN

FREE USE OF MAILED

Washington, Jan. 25. (INS)—President Coolidge today for the first time affixed his signature to a bill passed by Congress.

It was an act giving Mrs. Florence Kling Harding, widow of the late President, the congressional franking privilege—so that she can use the United States mails without the payment of postage.

Monopoly of Moslems. The world's supply of Moslem skin is obtained by about a dozen buyers, who have their native collectors in caravans to collect the skins at various centers, of which it is Berbera, Zeylah and Haddah are the main points from which they are sent to Aden, a British trading station, which on account of the exact location, is the shipping point for the sent to London, the continent of Europe, and the United States.

"W" is Popular.

In the English language there are more surnames beginning with "W" than any other letter.

Ouch! Such Pain!

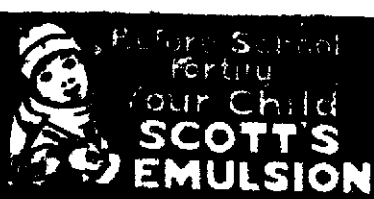

It takes you right in the back! Sometimes in the arm, hip or foot. It's all due to an overabundance of that poison, called uric acid. The kidneys are not able to get rid of it. Such conditions you can readily overcome, and prolong life by taking the advice of Dr. Pierce, which is, "Keep the kidneys in good order." Avoid too much meat, alcohol or tea. Drink plenty of pure water, preferably not water, before meals, and drive the uric acid out of the system by taking Anuric. This can be obtained at any drug store, in tablet form. Ask for Dr. Pierce's Anuric Tablets and backache remedy.

Lebanon, Pa.—"For four months I was confined to my home quite unable to work. I could not sleep at night, because of too frequent kidney action and the secretion burned like scalding water. During that four months I had three different doctors with the hope that one of them would prescribe something that would help me, but it was not until I began to take Dr. Pierce's Anuric Tablets that I felt a real getting better. I was soon back at my work again, and am glad to say that both my kidneys and bladder are in a fine healthy condition."—John A. Bender, 518 Light Avenue. Send 10c for trial package to Dr. Pierce's Invalid Hotel in Buffalo, N. Y.

Susan B. Anthony Once Fined. Susan B. Anthony was the first American suffragist to be arrested for her principles. In order to test the Fourteenth and Fifteenth amendments she cast ballots at the state and congressional elections at Rochester in 1872. She was indicted for illegal voting and a fine imposed. She definitely refused to pay the fine, but was never jailed.

Fatal Effect.

"Yesterday afternoon he read his copy of the Eagle. Three hours later he died."—From an obituary in the Brooklyn Eagle.

Before School Fortify Your Child
SCOTT'S EMULSION

Everywhere Expresses Contempt.

The tongue has a single purpose in everybody knows what it means. It is thrust out to express contempt. The little girl who "sticks out her tongue" does not realize that her action is as ladylike, backs back to the neck as it is. It is undoubtedly a most ancient mode of conveying the idea of contempt. Everywhere in the world, among savage and civilized peoples, the lingual gesture has the same recognized significance.

Lawsuit That Lasted 400 Years.

The longest lawsuit on record lasted over 400 years. It was a dispute about some land in Poland. The people interested being the Sobieskis of Orzowo and the Sobieskis of Podlowa. It began in the year 1480 and a settlement was arrived at in 1880 the land being then divided among the then representatives of the original litigants.

Accounts vary as to the date that marks the beginning of the Overman "Passion Play." Some have it that the custom was instituted centuries before the thirty years' war, with a cessation during that period. Reliable chroniclers maintain that it cannot be traced farther back than 1854. Those Bavarian peasants made a vow that if the plague would cease, they would give the play every decade, and they faithfully kept until the sequence was broken because of the war.
Old Oil Well.
On a trip through western Virginia, George Washington came upon what he called an "oil spring." He was so struck with the possible usefulness of this oil that in his last will he called the special attention of his trustees to the matter. Right here, it might be said, was the first awakening of interest in petroleum production in the United States—an industry the development of which gave us an output of 556,000,000 barrels in the last year.

LIVE STOCK FACTS

Earning Power of Pure Bred Higher Than Scrub

Based on utility alone—apart from breeding or sales value—pure bred live stock has an earning power from a third to one-half greater than scrub stock. The average superiority of pure breeds over scrubs for all classes of farm animals is about 40 per cent.

Of the principal points in which pure breeds excel other stock, the most prominent are: Superiority and uniformity in conformation and type, greater sale value, early maturity, and economy in the conversion of feed into meat, milk, wool, and work.

Superior pure breeds are readily salable at satisfactory prices in the majority of cases; but much depends on the breeding and production records and the business ability of the breeder.

With rare exceptions, pure bred sires are more satisfied with the quality of the offspring obtained, except that the desire is created in many cases to improve the quality still further.

The progeny of pure bred sires has practically a 50 per cent greater sale value than the progeny of sires not pure bred.

Pure bred sires of good quality are readily obtainable in the experience of three-fourths of the breeders reporting. The principal difficulties are: Paying the price and finding the desirable type, but there is practically unanimous agreement that the results justify the cost.

The average increase in financial returns from live stock raising, traceable to the use of pure bred sires is 45 per cent.

Docking of Lambs Great Help at Time of Selling

Farmers who are engaged in the sheep industry often forget to dock and castrate their lambs. Live stock commission men and packers are staunch supporters of castration and docking of lambs for market purposes and pay more for animals which have received this attention.

"Castration of lambs is a simple operation and if performed at the proper time the lamb does not mind it, and there is little risk attached," says Prof. Phil A. Anderson, animal husbandry expert at University farm at St. Paul, Minn. "The operation should be done when the lamb is ten days to two weeks old; older lambs can be unsexed but with more risk. Use any good disinfectant, having hands and knife clean. The lower one-third of the scrotum is removed and the testicles forced out. The spermatic cord should be drawn out with the fingers and cut off with a knife by a scraping manner in order to prevent excessive bleeding. After the operation is completed, apply a disinfectant. If blowflies are abundant, apply a little clean pine tar."

"Lambs that have not been docked present a poor appearance when marketed, but the main reason for docking is that lambs on summer pasture often scur. Such conditions invite the blow-fly and maggots and often the lamb is lost."

Breeding Ewes Require Exercise During Winter

One very important factor in winter breeding ewes is to see that they get plenty of exercise. Lack of exercise is one of the causes of weak lambs. When it can be arranged, at least a part of the roughage should be fed in the field at some distance from the barn or shed and the ewes should be out every day that the weather is fair. In fact, for best results, the ewe should have the equivalent of at least a mile of exercise each day.

In sheltering ewes, protect them from cold rains and driving storms. Many people make the mistake of not housing their ewes until they have become wet or until practically all damage has been done. Low temperature in the barn or shed is not serious so long as the sheep are dry under foot and over head. Have ventilation without strong drafts. Danger lies in having a barn too warm and damp.

"Hard Luck" With Pigs Traced to Improper Feed

A great deal of the so-called "hard luck" with young pigs soon after farrowing can be traced directly to improper feeding and in most cases to overfeeding of the sows. Just because a sow seems hungry just after farrowing is no indication that she should receive feed.

A liberal supply of water should always be available. This will usually satisfy and quiet the sow. She should receive very little feed for at least 24 hours after farrowing. The first few feeds of grain should be light and fed in the form of thick slop. She should not be on full feed for from six to ten days after farrowing.

System in Feeding Pigs to Be Used for Breeding

There should be system in feeding pigs that are to be used for breeding, and that system should have for its purpose rapid growth and early maturity; but, at the same time, they should be fed for growth of frame and not fattened on corn. In addition a limited amount of fibrous food should be given with each feed. Alfalfa is among the best. The leaves, when slightly wilted, are greatly relished in winter.

TO FIGHT RADICAL TEACHING

Tacoma Woman Donates to Establish Chair at Pacific University at Forest Grove, Ore.

A practical means of combating the industrial, social and economic unrest being fostered in this country by the I. W. W. and other radical forces, has been found, it is believed, in the recent establishment of the American Legion chair of history and patriotism at Pacific University, Forest Grove, Ore.

This department, conceived by Legionnaires when the effect of returned ex-service men began to make itself manifest in stabilizing the restless unemployed, became an accomplished fact when Mrs. Robert L. McCormick of Tacoma, Wash., long a friend of the ex-service man, donated $100,000 to the perpetuation of the chair.

The movement to establish the chair of history and patriotism was started early last spring. American Legion men, seeing possibilities in the policy of the Pacific university, whereby free scholarships were given all ex-service men, suggested that the university lay before the various patriotic organizations of the country the matter of stabilizing its patriotic program. A move to establish the American Legion chair of history and patriotism resulted and culminated in the gift of Mrs. McCormick.

Of the amount donated by Mrs. McCormick half was used in the erection of a building to house the department. The remaining $50,000 forms an endowment fund which assures the permanence of the chair.

The expressed purpose of the department is to teach and foster the ideas and ideals of the founders of the country and to perpetuate in the lives of posterity the heroic service and sacrifice of the American Legion.

Aside from classroom lectures on the essentials of patriotism, the course of study includes a laboratory course in the investigation of social, industrial and economic conditions of unrest; of the cause of the rise and fall of nations and the means whereby the dry rot which eats at the heart of government may be combated.

An example of the practical field work being accomplished by the students of the department is seen in a recent threatened disturbance in mill towns along the coast. American Legion students went into the troubled district, gained the confidence of the workers, and succeeded in averting any disturbance.

Such field work will be extended in the future to include investigation and the making of reports on industrial conditions. It has been found that where the students are well posted on conditions, the outbreak may be averted in many instances.

POST POLLS OPEN TWO DAYS

Modern City Methods Used at Election Conducted by the Douglas County (Neb.) Legion.

With the largest membership of any post in the United States, the Douglas county (Neb.) post of the American Legion, when confronted by its recent elections, solved the problem by a system as comprehensive and efficient as any city or state election system. Polls were established in the county courthouse and were kept open from 7:30 a. m. until 6 p. m. on two consecutive days. A board of election commissioners sat at the courthouse during the polling and passed on the eligibility of each voter. None was allowed to ballot who had not paid up his dues for the year. Absentee voters sent their ballots by mail and telegraph, the board passing on the authenticity of the ballots. The only trouble in the election was the insistence of some enthusiastic politicians who tried to carry their electioneering almost to the curtain of the voting booth. It was found necessary to establish a dead line for the amateur politicians some distance from the polls.

Will Receive Medal

In recognition of her service as first president of the first department of the American Legion auxiliary and as presiding chairman of the first national convention, Dr. Helen Hughes Hiescher of Makoto, Minn., will receive a gold medal from the National Legion Auxiliary. A committee is now working on the design for the medal.

Compensation Time Limit

Officials of the Kansas department, American Legion, are sending out warning to all ex-service men of the state concerning the final date of filing for state compensation. No applications will be received after January 1, 1924, it is said.

American Farm Bureau

Left to Right, Top Row—F. R. Churchill, Middlebury, Vermont; R. E. Wilson, Dover, Delaware; R. E. Gwin, Columbus, Kansas. Bottom Row—C. F. Class, Lebanon, Ohio; Walter F. Gahn, Portsmouth, Ohio; E. C. Roth, Brainerd, Minnesota.

High honors were awarded six county agents this year by a committee of agriculturists for soil-fertility programs developed in their counties. The winners were awarded diplomas certifying their work and were given a trip to Chicago where they attended a meeting of the American Society of Agronomy.

The county agents winning this distinction were: F. R. Churchill, Middlebury, Vermont; R. E. Wilson, Dover, Delaware; C. F. Class, Lebanon, Ohio; R. E. Gwin, Columbus, Kansas; E. C. Roth, Brainerd, Minnesota; and Walter F. Gahn, Portsmouth, Ohio.

The committee of judges who passed on the soil-fertility program of the county agents were Professor Bear, Ohio State university; Dr. A. G. McCall, University of Maryland; S. B. Haskell, Massachusetts experimental station; Professor M. F. Miller, University of Missouri.

RURAL ELECTRIC LINE TEST IN MINNESOTA

To Ascertain if Service Can Be Made Successful.

Minnesota is to have the first trial rural electric line in the United States. It is to be built under the joint supervision of farmers, agricultural college experts and power company officials. When completed, it will be put to its real test. This test consists of experiments to ascertain definitely whether rural line electric service can be made an economic success from the standpoint of both farmer and power company.

This definite program is the result of representative farmers and Northern States Power company officials joining in a series of meetings starting last January and culminating in a meeting held in St. Paul, September 27th last and bids fair to solve the rural electric line problem in Minnesota and blaze the trail for the rest of the nation.

It was agreed that a trial electric line some five miles long in a typical southern Minnesota farming community, should be built.

By a unanimous vote, J. E. Reed, president of the Minnesota Farm Bureau federation, presiding at the meeting, was instructed to appoint a committee of seven, with himself as chairman, and the committee to include Dean W. C. Coffey, of the Minnesota College of Agriculture, with five other members to represent the farmers and company.

By further motion, this committee was instructed not only to take charge of experiments in the use of electrically-driven equipment on this trial line, but to make a complete survey of the entire power situation on the Minnesota farms, both in the farm home and on the farm itself.

The report drawn up by this committee listed the advantages of electricity on the farm as follows:

1. Convenience in lighting the house and barn with consequent dispensing with kerosene lamps and lanterns.
2. Labor saving for the farmer and his wife. This might be subdivided as follows: (a) Labor saving for both husband and wife which would merely ease their daily burdens, but which would neither produce more money nor save money. (b) Labor saving devices which would preclude the necessity of hiring household help for the wife and labor saving devices which would preclude the necessity of hiring an assistant for the farmer.
3. Electrically-driven and operated farm equipment which would actually produce additional dollars on the farm.

E. A. White, director of the committee on the relation of electricity to agriculture, declared at the end of the meeting that Minnesota had taken a step which placed it in advance of all the rest of the nation.

"We are starting right," he said. "This is the first time in history of this problem of rural electric service that farmers and power company men have sat down together to work out their problem on a basis of mutual understanding. Wherever this line is built, I think I can promise co-operation of the manufacturers of electrical-driven equipment, for this will be the first line of this kind in the United States, and we will see to its complete electrification. Anything of a purely experimental nature will go into it at no cost to the farmer."

Maryland Co-Op. Progresses

Membership in the Maryland egg marketing pool continues to grow. It is expected that sufficient membership to represent the 100,000 hens necessary in order that the Atlantic Coast Poultry Producers' association may open an egg marketing exchange in Baltimore, will be secured within the next few weeks. Egg circles have been organized in most of the farm bureau counties.

EXCHANGES MARKET CABBAGE

Co-operative Associations Recommended at Conference of Growers in Chicago.

A resolution recommending that co-operative marketing associations be set up in the late cabbage growing states was adopted at the national cabbage growers' conference held by the American Farm Bureau federation in Chicago.

State co-operatives are to be set up on the commodity basis with grower contracts covering a period of not less than three years. The county or local associations will be federated into state exchanges with proper provisions for grading, pooling, storage and orderly selling.

The resolution further recommends: "that when a sufficient number of state cabbage exchanges have been formed that they be co-ordinated into a national group.

A national cabbage growers' advisory committee is being appointed. Members of the committee thus far named are: Walton Peters, co-operative marketing director, A. F. B. F.; K. C. Livermore, New York; Walter McAllen, Minnesota; John G. Jones, Wisconsin; and C. W. Wald, Ohio. E. B. Hazen, of the A. F. B. F. staff, will actively promote organization work.

AIMS OF RESEARCH COUNCIL

Will Stimulate and Co-ordinate Studies on Agricultural Economic Problems.

The midwest agricultural economics research council, organized at the research conference called last summer by President Boardman of the American Farm Bureau federation, is now beginning to function with R. H. Critchfield as executive secretary.

Mr. Critchfield comes directly from the United States Department of Agriculture, where he was working as farm business analyst. He is a Middle West man, has had experience in farming and has served on the faculties of the North Dakota Agricultural college and University of Minnesota.

The object of the council is to stimulate and co-ordinate research work on agricultural economic problems. The council will have headquarters at 139 North Clark street, Chicago. The organization committee in charge consists of H. W. Moorhouse, American Farm Bureau federation, chairman; George E. Stephens, Illinois chamber of commerce; Dr. Benjamin Hubbard, University of Wisconsin; A. A. Schoenfeld, United States bureau of agricultural economics.

Bones of Ancient Americans

Interesting remains of an ancient American race have been found in a mound at Santa Barbara, Cal. Scientists declare that skeletons found near the surface in their excavations were buried long before Europeans set foot in that section. It is estimated that the most recent remains found date back at least 500 years. Not a tooth in any of the skulls unearthed shows evidence of decay, although all are much worn, due evidently to sand and grit in the food eaten. The front teeth in some instances were found to be as large as the molars of the average modern white man. The sutures of a number of the skulls had grown together, indicating that their owners lived to a great age. Among the bones were found a lump of yellow paint and one of red which passed current as money among these primitive people.—Current History.

Needed Inventions

The English scientist who wrote that widely-copied list of much-needed inventions merely skirted the subject. Here are a few long-felt wants he entirely overlooked: A telephone that will automatically shock the bore who has talked over five minutes. A lawnmower that will toss nails and stones over the neighbor's fence instead of trying conclusions with them. A cellar furnace that will open its doors and feed coal into itself when the fire gets low. A fountain pen that will say "I'm empty" before you start to sign your name. Instead of silently ceasing to flow after you've made your first initial. An alarm clock that will reach out its hands and gently open one's eyes and smile down into them, instead of searing one half to death.—Boston Transcript.

Strong-Minded Woman

Little Dollie's father was an Indian official. He was also rather afraid of his wife, who was one of those strong-minded women.

One day the little girl was taken out for a drive with her father and some of his friends.

Suddenly a loud roar was heard in the distance, and before long a sleek-looking tiger came into view from among the undergrowth at the side of the track.

Each of the men in turn tried to shoot the beast. One after another they failed, and with each failure the little girl got more and more excited.

Finally, turning to her father, she exclaimed in a high-pitched voice: "Oh, daddy, couldn't we take it home and let mummy shoot it?"

May Reform Calendar

Now that the Greek churches have abandoned the old Julian calendar and brought their year into agreement with that of all the European and of the American nations the time is ripe, many persons think, for a thoroughgoing reform of the Gregorian calendar itself. The advocates of the improved calendar of thirteen months of just four weeks each, and one extra day, to be known as "New Year's day," are reviving their arguments and predicting the early adoption of their system by the world. They are as hopeful as well as a logical group, but we think they will find the going harder than they expect.

Taking Her Choice

There was a new attendant at the Spiritualist meeting and he had formerly been employed in a big department store. This fact came to light when a client requested him to tell the medium that she wished to speak with Mr. Green.

"Certainly, madam," said the new attendant. "Can you give me his Christian name?"

"I'm afraid I've forgotten it, but he only died quite recently."

The attendant cleared his throat and approached the medium.

"Please show the lady some of the latest shades of Green," he said.

INTRUSION OF GYPSIES INTO FRANCE AND FALL OF NOTRE DAME SPECTACULAR SCENES

The intrusion of the gypsies into the population of France until they became an important element later from just prior to the period in which Victor Hugo placed his story, "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," the pictured production of which made by Universal, which comes for a three day run at the Driggs Theatre Monday, Jan. 28th. The fact that the author made his heroine, Esmeralda, a gypsy is important in considering the time of which he writes because he makes her the adopted ward of Clopin, the king of the Parisian beggars and thieves.

These nomads, arising from undetermined origin, though their English name is said to be a corruption of "Egyptian," were undoubtedly the off-scouring of many nationalities, outlaws for any reason from escape from vassalage to conviction of crime. The gypsy of France at that period, called by the French "Bohemians" because the first band appearing there said that they came from Bohemia, resorted to the time-honored pursuit of fortune-telling and alchemy. They were, too, in the poorly policed lands of that age notorious for thievery. Their practice of stealing children for barter or rearing was also notable and won for them detestation.

Though Hugo does not state so, Esmeralda might well have been one of these stolen children. He gives her Spanish characteristics which might go to prove the genesis of his conception of her. The freedom (Continued On Page Two.)

Time Approaches When Autoist Must Have All His Cards With Him

Harrisburg, Jan. 23.—Benjamin G. Eynon, Registrar of Motor Vehicle, announced today that on and after March 1, 1924, every operator of a motor vehicle must have with him his 1924 operator's license. Owners' drivers' licenses, paid drivers' licenses and operators' licenses for the year 1923 are valid up to Feb. 29, 1924, only.

The motor patrol has orders to bring information against every operator on the highways who does not possess a 1924 operator's license after March 1, 1924.

Blanks are being distributed daily by the Automobile Division to notaries public, justices of the peace and others who apply either in person, or by mail. The blank need not be sworn to.

All applications received in Harrisburg are immediately acted upon and the Division can handle 75,000 applications daily. It cannot, however, handle 1,000,000 in the last week prior to March 1, and waiting is given operators that immediate delivery will not be guaranteed on applications received later than Feb. 28.

The Division daily is receiving from 7,500 to 12,000 applications for operators' license, and notice has been given in advance that 1923 operators' licenses will not be renewed after Feb. 28.

-better biscuits

Lighter, tastier, finer-grained, more wholesome biscuits than you ever made, ever saw or ever tasted. No biscuits, in any way, can compare with those made with Calumet Baking Powder. The same is true of all bakings, doughnuts, cakes, muffins—everything that is leavened with Calumet.

Calumet is so perfectly made, you are always absolutely sure of the best results. There is never a minute of uncertainty or doubt. Its strength never changes. It never weakens. Every spoonful of every can is of the highest quality and purity.

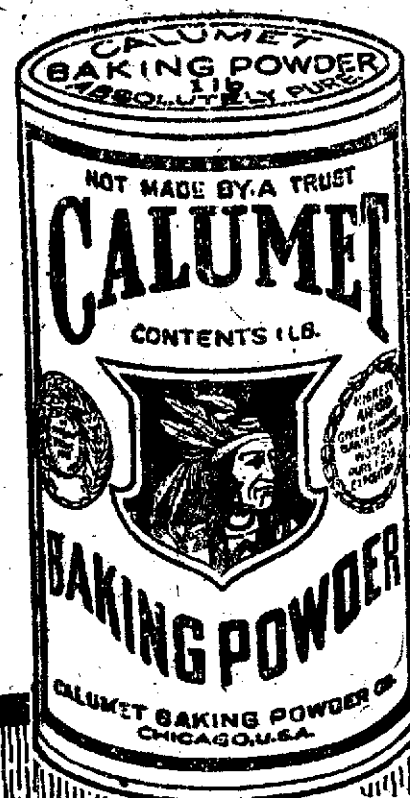

CALUMET

The Economy BAKING POWDER

The most economical of all baking powders. You save when you buy it—you save when you use it—has more than the ordinary leavening strength—therefore you use less. You save materials it is used with because there are no spoiled bakings. Calumet is the world's biggest selling baking powder, simply because it has demonstrated to millions of housewives that it's the most dependable and economical. It is pure in the can—pure in the baking.

CALUMET BISCUITS

3 level cups of flour
3 level teaspoonfuls of Calumet Baking Powder

HOW TO MAKE THEM—Sift all dry ingredients together. Then work in shortening thoroughly. Next add cold milk or water, mixing to a soft dough. Turn dough on floured board and roll out lightly $\frac{1}{8}$ inch thick. Cut into biscuits and lay in baking pan. Let stand for five minutes; then bake in hot oven.

This is positively one of the best biscuit recipes ever formulated. Cut out and paste in your recipe book for future reference.

Calumet is manufactured in the largest, finest, most sanitary Baking Powder factories in existence.

Sold under a positive guarantee of "Money-Back"—if it doesn't give better results at less expense than any other baking powder you ever used—regardless of price.

Try it! Have greater baking success—more wholesome and delicious foods. Save money, time, worry—and lots of it.

The sale of Calumet is over 150% greater than that of any other baking powder.

Don't Overlook This!

A pound can of Calumet contains full 16 ounces. Some baking powders come in 12 ounce instead of 16 ounce cans. Be sure you get a pound when you want it.

STEPHANIE

A VERY unusual name is Stephanie. It is a name of great value and represents a revival of interest in the old Greek names which had far more significance than our modern names. Stephanie, for instance, originated with the Greek goddess where the wrath of the conqueror was an appropriate allusion to those games where the Greek youth delighted in combat. The wrath was called a stephanos, and it is more than likely that the first proper name Stephanie was so called by a proud family whose representative had returned with a leafy crown on his brow.

Stephanie, the contraction, was an old Greek name borne by the son of Thucydides, before it was given to the Hellenist dream who achieved, the greatest of all victories and won the spiritual crown. Old Greek hymn writers celebrated this accordance of name and destiny.

Then by some a crown implied. Monthly they in praise their deity For the crown of righteousness.

Stephanie is the feminine form approved in Greece; it also signifies a crown. It received a sacred prominence since no less than seven saints bore the masculine form of it, including the great Saint Stephen the martyr. The English gained its use in a song, through William the Conqueror, who dedicated to Saint Stephen the altar built at Caen to expiate the marriage with the already betrothed Matilda.

The English have placed the stamp of their own feeling upon it, and while using Stephanie to a large extent also favor Stephanie. The French call her Stephanie, Stephanie, Kristina, and Stephanie. Stephanie is the Portuguese form and Stephanie, the German. Russia changes her to Stephanie and Stephanie.

Stephanie is a name which will protect her from all harm, and is said to attract divine favor to its wearer. Her lucky day is Wednesday and 3 is her lucky number. (© by Wheeler Hydrate Inc.)

Bedroom Carries Disqualification.
I never knew a man that was bad, for any service that was good. There was always some disqualifying incident mixing with the compound, and spoiling it. The accomplishment of anything good is a physical impossibility in such a man. He could not if he would, and it is not more certain that he would not if he could do a good and virtuous action. — Burke.

Charles Jones

Vincennes, Ind., was the place where Charles Jones, the "movie" star, first saw the light. Starting his career as a cow-puncher on the Triangle-Bar ranch, he enlisted in the United States cavalry, went to the Philippine islands, helped put down the Moro rebellion, came back and joined a Wild West show. Overseas, before the United States entered the war, he was attached to a French replacement camp for heroes. His remarkable riding won the attention of Premier Clemenceau and the King of Belgium. At the close of the war he was engaged by a prominent producer to enter western pictures.

INTRUSION

from social restrictions has been the dominant quality of the gypsy, and in the troublous times in medieval Europe this class flourished. This freedom also clothes them with considerable romance, for the mind of those subject to law and rule find glamor in that which, though it does not release them, frees others. Their more organized modern prototypes are the lowly hoboes afflicted with the nomadic spirit and often criminal in intent, though restricted to male membership.

The temperament of the gypsy makes love of music, especially the wild airs that suggest unrestraint, a paramount trait. Many of them were and are remarkable musicians. Esmeralda reveals that trait in her character through her ability as a dancer, and music has been utilized by gypsies not alone for their amusement but to capitalize it in their predations either through obtaining money by fair donations or to make real thieving purpose. Thus they formed a large portion of that army of thieves and beggars ruled by Clopin and led by him in the great attack upon the forces of the crown when storming Notre Dame, which forms a memorable and thrilling scene in the pictured production.

5 Operations—15 years suffering with constipation—Kellogg's Bran restores health

Mr. Lansing's case is typical of thousands of others. He found permanent relief from constipation in Kellogg's Bran because it is ALL bran. Nothing but ALL bran can be 100 per cent effective. Read what he says:

Dear Sir: I have been afflicted with constipation for the past 15 years, and during that time I have been in four different hospitals and submitted to five different operations that were the result of constipation. I was getting so bad that every meal I ate soured on my stomach. Two months ago I was advised to eat your Kellogg's Krumbled Bran. I tried it, as I was trying everything I could hear of. From that day on I have never taken a physic. My stomach does not sour any more and my bowels move regularly morning and evening. Yours sincerely, Frank Lansing, 1206 Fairfax Ave., Mason, Ind.

For permanent relief, eat Kellogg's Bran regularly. Two tablespoons daily—in chronic cases, with every meal. It is guaranteed to bring results, or your grocer will return your money.

You will like the delicious nut-like flavor of Kellogg's Bran—so different from ordinary bran, which are unpalatable. Eat Kellogg's Bran with milk or cream. Sprinkle it over other cereals. Cook it with hot cereals. Try it in the recipes given on the package.

Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, is served by leading hotels and clubs in individual packages. Made in Battle Creek. Sold by all grocers.

THE SLIPPER OF RED BROCADE

BEGIN HERE TODAY

A novelist, seeking nocturnal adventure, leaves the ball room of the Marchioness of Drimling. While standing in the doorway leading to the street, he sees a woman in evening dress chasing a small, dark, cat-like animal. The woman's slipper offers him services and he is amazed to be addressed as "No. 9."

Several men come upon the scene and, blindfolded, he is taken to a room in a part of London unfamiliar to him. Many people are assembled there who plot to kill the Emperor of Berengaria. The novelist is addressed as "No. 9."

After much discussion, the novelist is given the task of killing the Emperor. He leaves the meeting place as the secret of the woman. He makes up his mind to try to convert this beautiful girl.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

I thought, "Now to tell her the truth." She could do me no harm. She might carry a weapon, but I was ready for her. Perhaps to save her... but, I don't know why, my courage failed me, or rather I realized that it was no good. Behind this smooth forehead lay an idea which had eaten up every other impulse. There was no moving her; I knew only too well how strongly women hold to an idea when they possess only one. So, instead, we talked of the brilliant night, where now the moon hung low like a pen of pallid jade. I found in Sylvia an unexpected poetic strain. She saw the future, when her cause had triumphed, as one when mankind would no longer suffer, when no child would go hungry, when no woman would weep, when no beast would be overladen. It was mad and beautiful, this dream. At last I couldn't bear it any more, and, turning to her said: "It's awful to think that inside 24 hours you may be... well, dead. And you're young, and you're so lovely. I think you're the loveliest creature I've ever seen. You make my heart melt."

She pressed my arm: "You're making love to me, aren't you? But I don't mind... Geoffrey. We haven't time to mind, we people. We shan't last long. I'm sad, too, to think that so soon you may die like me. Something goes wrong in my throat when I hear your voice."

We reached Lansdowne Passage and passed between the close walls. I could not help saying it: "Sylvia, do we love each other so soon?"

"I don't know," she replied, after a moment. "I've never seen you before. I suppose you've just joined. What's the good of it, anyway?"

Indeed, what was the good of it? We went silently up the steps into Berkeley Street. I saw a taxi crawl up. It drew up, waited for us.

"Good night," murmured Sylvia, extending her hand.

I helped her in: "Don't go yet."

"I must. Good night." She snatched her hand away; the driver opened the taxi door. Then Sylvia turned and ran back to me, leading me into the darkness under the narrow roof. As if gratifying a sudden desire, she flung her arms around my neck and pressed upon my lips a violent, desperate kiss. There was in her grasp some agony, and in her caress a purpose, as if thus she filled me with enthusiasm and fortitude.

"YOU HAVE BEATEN US," SHE SAID. "THE TYRANT MUST ESCAPE."

was a little flushed; the red mouth was smiling. For a moment I thought of going on. But I knew that was absurd. Now to shatter the crystal edifice of the dream; I said: "Sylvia, I hope this won't be too much of a shock to you, but I'm not what you think."

"What?" she said, in a strained whisper.

"I'm not No. 9. I didn't exactly know what No. 9 was. No wonder you had not seen me before, and that you thought my lot had been drawn by proxy. By occupation I am a person of no occupation. Dancing, golf, and gossip make up my existence. I am fairly well off, the last thing I desire is the destruction of any emperor, or the overthrowing of the social order."

She was staring at me: "But you said you were..."

"No. You said it."

"But you called me No. 9!"

I explained; her eyes were full of horror. She was like a little beast that is trapped. Only after a moment did she say: "But what became of the real No. 9?"

"I don't know. I suppose he was late. When we arrived there was nobody to meet him. I suppose he went back to the F. Committee."

"Hush!" she cried. "Don't! Don't say that aloud!" Then she realized the situation. "I begin to understand. You are one of the gilded minions of the tyrants, the enemies. You took advantage of my difficulty. You're a..."

"Indeed, Sylvia," I replied, rather nettled, "you're a strange Daniel to come to judgment over me, you, a professional murderer." I was rather rude, but one does not like being called a cad.

"Oh, words!" she replied with a sneer. "The only thing that I care about is that you, a man of your kind, should know our plans. Of course you'll go to the police. Why don't you have me arrested?"

"I'm sure I don't know, I ought to. But you're too attractive."

"You make me sick. Men are always like that to women, I suppose. Oh, what am I going to do? You know everything."

"Look here, Sylvia," I cried. "I may be a cad, but I'm not going to give you away. I shall, of course, let the Emperor of Berengaria know that henceforth he must be guarded, but I shall not have you arrested; you can go free if you like, and I hope this will be a warning to you, that you won't go on with this madness."

Then Sylvia went to the heart of the question: "I don't care what happens to me, but I care what happens to the comrades. You know our secret. Very well. You'll...?" She laughed: "Fool, that you are! Why did you meddle with such things? Don't you understand that within a day, whether I am arrested or not, within a day you will be removed?" Her tone was sad, but it grew angry: "I don't suppose that in another day you will be alive."

"Oh yes, I assure you I shall be alive. Your friends won't touch me. It's too risky. Don't laugh. Do not imagine that I've come here without a weapon. Last night, when I left you at Lansdowne Passage, I was, well, half crazy with love for you. But I still had curiosity. I told myself that your slipper could not have been taken very far by the dog. He would tire of his game. So I went back."

"You want back?"

"Yes."

"But I went back!" she shrieked in agony. "I had to find it. I had to. I would have gone to find it if they hadn't taken us into the house. I dared not tell the comrades. I hoped to find it... but I couldn't find it. Oh, I went half mad. I... couldn't find it."

"No wonder," I replied, "for I found it."

"In Half Moon Street."

"Oh, what a fool I was! I didn't think the dog would have gone that way. I went up Down Street. Oh, what shall I do?"

"Nothing, Sylvia, nothing. When I found your slipper, laugh at me if you like. I kissed it. As I looked at it closely, under the sole I found a document, of which here is a copy."

She took it and dropped it at once. "What are you going to do?"

"Nothing. You will not deny that this is a complete list of the names and addresses of the members of the F. Committee. More exactly they are not names, but numbers. Still, only the addresses matter, for I expect your friends are already suspect. I shall not have you arrested, but I have posted the document already to my solicitor. My instructions are that if I die by violence, or by accident, the paper is to be handed over to the police. Now, Sylvia, which shall it be? Will you leave me unmolested? or will you gasol all your friends? Will you let our foreign visitor alone? or do you prefer to hang? I will do nothing to me."

Tears formed in her eyes. She made a helpless gesture: "You have beaten us," she said. "The tyrant must escape, and you, too, must escape, I suppose. But do not think that you will turn us from our purpose."

We rose from the table. I did not reply. I knew that nothing could be done, that it was no use arresting her, for others would spring up after she fell. It was enough to have saved two lives, the Emperor's and mine. She waited politely while the cloakroom attendant gave me my hat and stick. He also gave me a small brown paper parcel which I held out to her: "Permit me," I said, "to return your slipper."

Another story of midnight adventure by W. L. George, "The Wax Lady," will appear in our next issue.

TO BE CLOSED CO-OPERATION

Veterans of World War and British Legion Now Are "Comrades in Peace."

Closer co-operation between veterans of the World War of the United States and Great Britain is indicated by the fact that the American Legion was represented at the annual convention of the British Legion and at the biennial meeting of the British Empire Service League.

Replying to a message sent by Alvin Owsley, American Legion national commander, to the British Legion, Sir Douglas Haig, head of the British organization, said:

"It seemed to me that your splendid words found an echo in the hearts of everyone present. To your wish, 'Let us be comrades in peace,' I hasten to assure you that that is the sincere wish of every member of the British Legion. The aims of our respective Legions seem to be identical for all practical purposes and I hope that by some means we English-speaking ex-service men may become more closely affiliated. Please convey to your colleagues of the American Legion the heartfelt thanks of the British Legion for your assurance of fellowship, which we cordially reciprocate."

Past National Commanders Hanford MacNider of Mason City, Ia., and Milton J. Foreman of Chicago represented the Legion at the British convention.

LEGION WARNING OF FAKES

Alleged Veterans' Publications Used to Appeal to Sympathy of Patriotic Citizens.

The sale of fake "veteran" magazines and publications has cost the public more than $5,000,000 within a period of fourteen months, according to information received by the American Legion which has issued a warning against the operations of promoters of the spurious publications.

Publishers often use the name "veteran" to persuade the public that former service men get part of the proceeds of sales. Their salesmen do not hesitate to use the disabled and wounded plea. Investigations by the Legion and other veterans' organizations and the Department of Justice have disclosed that entire proceeds of publications go into the pockets of persons who did not serve in the war, and who capitalize the patriotism of the American public and the reputation of World War fighters to enrich themselves.

Salesmen often peddle the publications with the plea of "help ex-soldiers"; "proceeds help disabled men"; "wounded myself in France, and cannot get a job." In some cases it was found to be the "game" for publishers to disown agents soliciting advance subscriptions. Other agents were found to have bought and worn "wound buttons" from private concerns. Many peddlers who have been arrested admitted that they were not former service men. By using the help-the-boys-who-fought-for-you plea, they have disposed of magazines, some at 25 cents a copy, their profit ranging from 17 to 19 cents.

In a number of cases salesmen have represented their publications as endorsed by the American Legion, which is untrue.

American Legion posts in all sections of the country are urged to give publicity to these fakes in order to protect patriotic citizens in their communities.

Visions of Great Minds.

Every great mind seeks to labor for cents. All men are captivated by immediate advantages; great minds alone are excited by the prospect of instant good.—Schiller.

"One Way to Dispense"

A pharmacist was dissatisfied with a youthful assistant and requested him to look for another job, remarking to a customer as the boy was leaving: "I can dispense without him."—Boys' Life.

SAYS LEGION BENEFITS TOWN

Disabled Veteran Declares Organization Demands Justice for Every Ex-Service Man.

"We knew it would be a benefit to the town to get a post of the American Legion here. The Legion deserves all the assistance that every ex-service man can give it, for I, as a disabled man, know that through that organization a disabled man can get justice."

This was the declaration of Frederick Graham, a veteran of the World War and of the Spanish-American war, who now resides in Edmonds, Wash. The town has no post of the American Legion, owing to a small number of ex-service men, and Graham has been suggested as one to start such a movement among the former soldiers in the community.

Graham wrote national headquarters of the Legion that he was unable to take up the organization work on account of his physical condition. He said that he was being cared for by the veterans' bureau, after his case had been presented by American Legion officials.

TO HONOR WORLD WAR HERO

Arkansas Legion Members Plan Fitting Tributes to Ex-Service Man in Unmarked Grave.

Arkansas members of the American Legion are assisting in plans for the Herman Davis Memorial Foundation in honor of Herman Davis, Arkansas' outstanding hero of the World War, who died in January from the effects of gas and is buried in an unmarked grave at Manila, Ark.

Plans of the foundation call for the erection of a suitable monument to his memory at Manila, and a similar monument on the lawn of the State War Memorial building at Little Rock. In addition, a scholarship will be endowed at the University of Arkansas, to be known as the Herman Davis scholarship.

A highway leading through the northern part of Mississippi county, through Manila and past the burial place of the young hero will be known as the Herman Davis Memorial highway.

Placed fourth on the list of two heroes of the war by General Pershing, Davis was always modest and reticent. He did not seek to capitalize his fame, but when the war was over returned to his native soil and again took up the ways of the simple life which he always had led.

Three Hundred Years Ago.

The first man to recognize the importance of roads in relation to progress was Lord Francis Bacon, who wrote three hundred years ago three elements were necessary to the growth of a community—fertile soil, busy workshops and easy conveyance of men and things, from one place to another.

Lady-Slipper.

Three of the well-known varieties of the beautiful orchid found in the temperate zone are called the pink lady slipper, the yellow moccasin flower and the showy lady-slipper which is white with purplish pink or magenta stripes. These names have been given the flowers as they bear a curious resemblance to a slipper.

LEADER OF OVERSEAS BODY

Miss Louise Wells of Chicago is Re-Elected President of Women's Service League.

Miss Louise Wells of Chicago has been re-elected president of the Women's Overseas Service League, known as the Little Sisters of the American Legion because many Legion women are also members of the league, making for closer cooperation between the two organizations.

Members of the league were the Army and Red Cross nurses, Salvation Army lassies, the "Y" girls, signal corps girls, canteeners, librarians and entertainers who served America's fighting men in France. Many were gassed and wounded and more than 150 of them died of such plagues as trench fever and influenza. A few were killed in action.

Miss Wells entered the service from Los Angeles. She is the daughter of Arthur U. Wells, vice president of the Santa Fe railroad. After serving at

Miss Louise Wells.

Camp Upton, she went overseas as a canteen worker. At Glenoble, at Allevard-Le-Bains and at Lyon, she served as a canteen worker and with the entertainment forces. She organized the Los Angeles unit of the league, and later was president of the Chicago unit.

Speaking at a recent convention of the league, Brig. Gen. Charles D. Jones said:

"You never looked so good to me as you did in your souther uniforms and hats, wading through the mud and mire, tramping through the rain, serving hot chocolate for hours at a time in that country which, before we went over, we called 'sunny France.'"

Members of the American Legion are paid to the overseas women by the National Commander John G. Mery of Grand Rapids, Mich.

Pollen Carried Far by Wind.
Wind-blown pollen ("sulphur rain") is known to be carried far. Hesselberg, of the Swedish experiment station, reports a quite extensive rain of tree pollen on two fire ships 20 and 37 miles from shore; and the pollen of algae is known to have been carried even as far as 200 miles.

Honorably Discharged Aliens Are Eligible For Citizenship Till March 3

Honorably discharged aliens who served in the military or naval forces of the United States during the world war were given opportunity for expeditious naturalization in view of their service.

Provision for naturalization by means of such expeditious proceedings was made by the Act of Congress approved July 19, 1919 (41 Stat. 222). This law authorizes the naturalization of World War veterans of the above description without complying with many of the usual requirements for naturalization, such as a declaration of intention, proof of five years' residence in the United States, payment of the customary $400 fee, and the usual ninety-day wait for the grant of citizenship. As a condition to naturalization under this special statute the applicant must appear before a Naturalization Examiner with his honorable discharge and two identifying witnesses for preliminary examination.

Particular attention is invited to the provision in the act of July 19, 1919, that its benefits will continue in force only for a period of one year after the return of all of the American troops to the United States.

This one-year period will expire on March 3, 1924, by reason of the fact that the last of the American troops were returned to the United States on March 3, 1923.

After March 3, 1924, honorably discharged World War veterans will have to comply with the usual requirements for naturalization, in the same manner as aliens in ordinary cases.

The purpose of this letter is to sound warning through you, to the ex-servicemen in your locality that if they wish to obtain the advantages of the act of July 19, 1919, before its expiration on March 3, 1924, they should get in immediate touch with the nearest U. S. Naturalization Examiner, Bernhard at Pittsburgh, so that the necessary arrangements may be made for that purpose.

The Best Plan.

BRITISH LABOR CABINET DECIDES TO RECOGNIZE SOVIET

Washington, Jan. 25. (INS.)—Recognition of the Russian Soviet Government by Great Britain will not affect the policy of the United States toward Russia, it was announced officially at the State Department today.

The principal objection of this government to the establishment of diplomatic relations with Russia is the alleged efforts of the Moscow authorities to propagate against American interests.

By DAVID M. CHURCH
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

London, Jan. 25.—Great Britain's cabinet has decided to recognize the Russian Soviet Government as soon as possible. It was officially announced by the foreign office this afternoon.

Decision to extend recognition to Moscow was the first official act of Premier Ramsay MacDonald's new government.

Great Britain probably will be the first great power to recognize the Soviet. Italy will be the next.

It is understood the Government has tentatively selected James O'Grady, Laborite member of Commons as the British Ambassador to Moscow when recognition is formally extended.

The British-Soviet Treaty was officially signed in favor of Russian recognition even before it came into effect.

According to the Trade Mission negotiations were in progress before the Bolsheviks became premier but were interrupted by the death of Lenin on January 21. They will be resumed in a few days to determine the conditions upon which recognition will be made.

If recognition takes the form of a treaty it will have to be ratified by Parliament. In this event there may be a coalition of Liberals and Tories against recognition. This would put the new labor government in a precarious position.

Moderates within the Labor party feel that two of the conditions should be recognized by the Soviet: the Russian debt and payment of indemnity by Moscow.

DAYLIGHT DRIVE ON PHILADELPHIA VICE STARTED TODAY AT 9

Philadelphia, Jan. 25. (INS.)—Squad 34 of the 48-hour daylight drive on vice and crime in this city began at 9 o'clock this morning with the police department rife with rumors that more official heads would find their way into the new director's "basket of undesirables."

A verified information that joints generally closed were operating in daylight. The General said tonight: "I have given the lieutenants notice that their districts must be cleaned up. This is a serious undertaking and I'm going to be taken seriously or else get rid of those who think this campaign is a huge joke."

General Butler also intimated that tonight he may spring a surprise unprecendented in police annals.

"I won't say what it will be," he declared, "but when it happens, some of you are going to get a terrible shock."

In a pre-battle talk late yesterday night, Butler, his face red with rage, denounced the lieutenants he had named before him as having failed to clean up their districts as thoroughly as they had reported.

Charges "Black Tom" Explosion to Germany; High Files Its Claim

Washington, Jan. 25. (INS.)—Claiming that the famous "Black Tom" explosion in Jersey City in 1916 has been traced to the instigation of the German government, the Lehigh Valley railroad company today filed a claim for damages with the German-American Mixed Claims Commission for $6,492,405.60.

The petition filed by the railroad today asserted that since 1916, its investigators have diligently endeavored to fix responsibility for the disastrous explosion and fire, and only within the last sixty days have they unearthed legal proof that the terminal was destroyed by agents of the German Government and at the specific order of the German Government.

The proof cited by the railroad was not submitted today, but leave was asked for its presentation at a later date.

The losses covered by the amount asked includes loss to common carriers using the terminal, damage to property stored therein, damage to other property in New York City, Jersey City, Bayonne, Newark and elsewhere and expenses of the investigation, most of which the petitioner has borne.

NEWS NUGGETS

MORE THAN ONE WAY OF KILLING A CAT

Harrisburg, Pa., Jan. 25.—The February payrolls of the State Game Commission today revealed that Charles Baum, Penbrook, a game protector who was refused $300 as "expenses" for a fine assessment against him, has now been given an increase for that amount. The change is made by the bureau of accounts of the State Department which fixes salaries of state employees. Baum's salary is increased from $2,100 to $2,400.

Baum was arrested and convicted on a charge of poaching firearms. He was fined $300 and included that item in his expense account. Auditor General Samuel Lewis on the advice of the Attorney General's department refused to honor the item on the ground the commonwealth was not liable for infractions of the law by its employees.

Lewis will now be compelled to honor the increase for a like amount.

CHICAGO CLUB WOMEN WANT MABEL'S STORY

Chicago, Jan. 25. (INS.)—Mabel Normand, film actress, will make her first public appearance upon her complete recovery before a gathering of Chicago club women who have asked to hear her story of the shooting by her chauffeur of Courtland S. Dines, her rich "playmate." A letter to this effect was received here today from the actress' secretary.

FALL, HAGGARD OF FACE AND BROKEN IN SPIRIT, TELLS TALE

By KENNETH W. CLARK
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

Washington, Jan. 25.—Haggard of face and obviously broken in spirit by the succession of ugly charges that have been hurled at him in the last two weeks' ex-secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall struck back at his accusers today with what he declared to be the "true story" of the famous $100,000 loan.

"There was no connection whatever between the $100,000 loan I received from Doherty and the lease he obtained for Naval Reserve Lands in California," Fall told International News Service.

He referred to testimony of E. L. Doherty, president of the Pan American Petroleum Company, before the Senate Public Lands Committee investigating naval reserve leases to private interests. The Oil Magnate declared he loaned Fall the $100,000 on November 30, 1921, on a promissory note, and that no mention has been made since that time about payment of the loan.

"I loaned him (Fall) the money because he has been a warm personal friend of mine for 30 years and I was happy to do this favor for a friend, especially as I could easily spare the money," Doherty said.

The loan was made only shortly before Doherty got the lease for the 37,000 acres in the Elk Hills, Calif., reserve. The money was sent to Fall in Washington, from New York in cash carried in a little black satchel by Doherty's son.

Fall's Statement

"Mr. Doherty loaned me the money because of the years of unbroken friendship between us," Fall added. "Besides, it was in gratitude for the many things I and no one else, had been able to do for him in Washington during the involvement of his Mexican properties by the war in that country."

"He never gave me the money on account of any oil leases."

Fall also denied flatly that he borrowed any large sums other than the $100,000 from Doherty. The impression was gained by some members of the committee from the oil man's testimony that there might have been a second $400,000 inasmuch as Doherty said "the cost of buying the Harris ranch and improvements on his own ranch exceeded $100,000." He declared Fall asserted the purpose of the loan was to purchase the adjoining ranch, not mentioning installations on the ex-Secretary's own ranch which were said to have cost about $80,000.

"I did not get any money from Harry F. Sinclair," Fall said.

"I did not get any money from Edward B. McLean. The one thing I

Mellon Reiterates Claim American Business Loses By Present Tax Schedule

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

Washington, Jan. 25.—A fresh chapter was written today in the now famous Mellon-Couzens tax correspondence concerning the merits of the tax reduction plan which the secretary of the Treasury has proposed.

In another letter to Senator Couzens, Republican of Michigan, his fourth in as many weeks, Mr. Mellon described Senator Couzens' reasoning processes as "unique" and reiterated his contention that American business is being mulcted and retarded by the present surtaxes on big incomes.

Mellon completely ignored, however, Couzens' recent challenge to reveal the extent of his personal wealth and disclose how much he personally would profit by the reduction of these surtaxes he has proposed.

Not even indirectly did Mellon refer to this "demand" of the Senator, nor to the similar demands made by Democrats in Congress that he reveal to the country the extent of his personal fortunes.

He contented himself today with answering Couzens' diatribes against the "millionaire" and with defending his reticence to Senator Couzens' own wealth, estimated at between $35,000,000 and $40,000,000.

"The case (against high surtaxes) is really too plain for argument," said Mellon. "All business involves risk. If business loses the government shares not at all in the loss, if business is successful the government takes more than half the gain. What can long with it and the odds?"

"You may argue your theories as you please, but neither you nor any other man, once he has gained wealth, cares to take these risks on these terms. The spirit of initiative may still be there, but the unworkable system of taxation is driving it into idleness. We shall become a nation of followers, not leaders."

A tax system having this inevitable effect must be changed.

"You, certainly as well as anybody, must have appreciated the killing effect of these high surtaxes on business initiative."

What possible influence other than these high surtaxes caused you to invest so much of your fortune in tax exemptions?"

Mellon ironically suggested that his letters to Couzens had been in vain.

Senator Couzens has only himself to blame, Mellon said, for bringing his own, Couzens', holdings of tax exempt securities into the discussion. He denied, inferentially, that he had consulted the secret records of the Treasury Department to ascertain the Michigan Senator's tax status, and asserted he drew his deductions only from Senator Couzens' own revelations that in one year he paid more than $7,000,000 income tax.

"Your case is not unique," said Mellon. "There are many other men in similar situations. What you have

GEORGIA WOMAN TO HANG FOR THE SLAYING OF HER MOTHER-IN-LAW

By B. V. S. UFDIVANT
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 25.—Fully composed and without expression of the slightest emotion, Mrs. Ida Hughes, young slayer of her aged mother-in-law, Mrs. M. C. Hughes, today stood in the Fulton county court room and heard Judge Howard say in a low distinct tone:

"You shall on March 14, hang by the neck until dead, and may God have mercy on your soul."

She looked straight into the eyes of Judge Howard as he read her fate and then nodded to her lawyer as if to say "That is all."

With this the doomed woman arose and drew her cloak closely around her body, and left the room.

There was no weeping, no sobbing, no demonstration of any kind. The death sentence seemed to come more as a part of some daily routine as far as she was concerned.

Mrs. Hughes shot her mother-in-law to death here on the afternoon of Sunday, Dec. 30.

She will be the third white woman to meet death by hanging in Georgia. The other two were executed years ago.

Br-r-r! Get Your Good Right Arm Ready to Feed The Furnace Tomorrow

Pittsburgh, Jan. 25. (INS.)—A cold wave, sweeping out of the northwest, was due to reach Western Pennsylvania tonight.

Thermometers will drop to 10 degrees during the night, weather forecasters here said, and will hover around that point tomorrow and Sunday. The peak of the cold wave will not reach the eastern sections of the state until tomorrow night, they said. Snow was expected to accompany the drop in temperature.

SHORT AND BIGLER SEEK ELECTION AS McADOO ELECTORS

With This Team at the Democrat Convention Clearfield County Will Be Up In Front Row.

BOTH WELL KNOWN

Editor John F. Short, of the Clearfield Republican, and one of the leaders of the Democratic party in Central and Western Pennsylvania, will be a candidate for delegate to the Democratic national convention from this, the 23d Congressional District, at the coming April primary election. Mr. Short is one of the sponsors of the movement looking to the lining up of Pennsylvania's 80 delegates for William Gibbs McAdoo for the Democratic nomination for the Presidency and will ask to be sent to the national convention to assist in furthering Mr. McAdoo's candidacy in that convention.

Mr. Short's political ability and wide acquaintance among the Democrats of the nation by reason of his attendance at every convention of his party since 1916 will especially equip him for the place and also serve to give this district real recognition at the national convention.

There will be two delegates from the 23d Congressional District, which is composed of Cameron, Centre and Clearfield counties, and the other delegate will come from one of the other three counties. Already Hon. Robert Foster, of State College, and Dr. F. K. White, of Philipsburg, have been mentioned as Centre's representative. Ex-Postmaster James G. Paul, of Bradford, is also considering being a candidate, but as Centre and Clearfield counties cast a large majority of the Democratic vote for the district, party leaders in these counties feel they should have the representation at New York in June.

Jim Reed, Of Missouri, To Announce Candidacy For President Tomorrow

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 25. (INS.)—Senator James A. Reed, Democrat of Missouri, will arrive here from Washington within 48 hours to announce formally his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for President, it was reported by Reed's supporters. Headquarters will be opened in St. Louis with Reed's former senatorial campaign manager, E. H. Glen in charge, it was said.

HEARING HELD TO DECIDE WHO SHALL RE-BUILD BRIDGE AT CURWENSVILLE

Burgess E. S. Erhard, President of Council, R. F. Penn and about two score other leading citizens and taxpayers of Curwensville were in attendance this morning at the hearing in the arbitrator's room of the Court House before County Viewers A. G. Kramer, E. D. Blotter and H. A. Rowe, on the question of the replacement of the bridge over Anderson Creek in the borough of Curwensville connecting Filbert and Anderson streets in said borough. In addition to the Curwensville people their attorney John C. Arnold, the County Commissioners, their attorney John M. Chase, Md. County Controller Woodward and Attorney A. H. Woodward also participated in the hearing.

It will be remembered that the bridge over Anderson Creek at the point mentioned collapsed and dropped into the creek last October. The bridge, a light iron structure, had been erected under direction of the County Commissioners in 1880 but its maintenance was an obligation upon the borough of Curwensville.

When the question of replacing the bridge arose there was some difference of opinion among county and borough officials as to who was liable for the expense of erecting the new bridge. The matter finally got into the courts and the county viewers were directed to go upon the ground, determine the necessity for the new bridge and establish the liability for its rebuilding.

It was in pursuance of this assignment that the meeting of the viewers was held today. The borough of Curwensville is financially unable to bear any part of the expense of erecting the proposed new bridge and the fact of this financial embarrassment was brought out by Attorney Arnold in his examination of the borough officials who testified at the hearing.

Burgess Erhard was the first witness called. He testified as to the collapsing of the bridge, which he said was a structure of one 120-foot span, with a driveway and foot walk along one side.

Attorney Chase questioned the Burgess regarding the feasibility of accommodating the public using such bridge by building a road down the right hand bank of Anderson Creek to connect with the bridge leading to the South Side of Curwensville. Dr. Erhard said the distance was 1500 feet and the road impracticable and almost impossible to build, as it would necessitate not only crossing the B. & P. track at grade but would involve necessary the taking of a part of the right of way of the railroad, while part of such road would have to be blasted out of the rocky side of the mountain.

County Commissioner Weimer added to this testimony by stating that the Commissioners had looked into the possibility of such a road and had been forced to give it up as impracticable.

President of Council Penn was then sworn and gave testimony as to the condition of the borough's finances, which he stated was not very healthy. He said the total valuation of all property in the borough for tax purposes was $669,640. The tax rate for general borough expenses was 14 mills, while the total borough millage was 28 mills. Their present indebtedness is $39,750 or within $1,000 of the constitutional 7 per centum limitation. In addition to the borough millage they had a 25-mill school tax with a $500 head tax for school purposes, with the school district up to its constitutional debt limit. They were up against the proposition of repaving the main street through the town proper, while they also had 6000 feet of state road on the Lattin-to-the-Sea Highway they had to Leesport, Pa., Jan. 25. (INS.)—Worried, according to his adopted parents, because he was censured at school for a minor infraction of the rules, Frank J. Huyett, 15, committed suicide today by shooting himself thru the heart. His body was found in a field.

Scrub Live Stock Is Drag on Pocketbook

There Are Still Many Farmers Who Use Scrub Sires.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The desire of practical live stock owners as well as agricultural workers to take an active part in spreading the message of "Better Sires—Better Stock" is evident from frequent letters received by the United States Department of Agriculture.

"I am in the cattle business," a Montana stockman writes, "and use pure bred sires, but there are still a good many people using scrub bulls in this part of the country. I would gladly work in conjunction with someone in getting the people interested and show them the great results from using pure bred sires, and for all time do away with the scrub animal which is such a drag on the pocketbook."

This live stock owner asked how better sires work is conducted in other places and was given that information. A Montana farmer who also desired to participate in the work reported that he was disposing of his last grade bull.

The manager of a large live stock farm in Montana recently notified the department that he had sold his scrub bull, which is to be replaced by a pure bred, and henceforth all his live stock breeding operations will be on a strictly pure bred sire basis. Eastern states are similarly active.

Universal Panaceas Are Likely to Be Worthless

No "stock feed" can be made which will cure all the ills that animals are heir to any more than an unfailing panacea for human ills can be put up in bottles and sold for so much per.

The specialist in live stock sanitation at the New York State College of Agriculture at Ithaca points out that the use of these stock feeds is not discouraged so much because there is something harmful in them, as because they are likely to be quite worthless.

These "stock feeds," he declares, are of much less value than the food that the farmer mixes himself for his stock. It is significant, he says, that almost invariably the directions accompanying these remedies and feeds say that careful attention to sanitation and feeding conditions must be observed during treatment.

Most stock feeds and tonics upon analysis are found to contain a large percentage of common salt, a laxative such as opium salts, glasser salts, or the like; sulphur; charcoal or other form of carbon; sulphate of iron as a liver vermifuge; and usually a filler by way of sulphur, oilmeal, scrapings, grade feeds, peanut shells, sand or rancid. Usually a very small quantity of a mild drug, like gentian, pepsin, ginger or pepper, is found.

Big Value of Genetics to the Animal Breeder

The chief value of genetics to the animal breeder lies in the elimination of false ideas and myths concerning breeding facts and results," declares R. A. Brink of the genetics department at the Wisconsin College of Agriculture.

In the plant-breeding field, it is possible to apply genetic knowledge more extensively than in the breeding of the higher types of animals because of the ease and economy with which plants may be grown.

"The fur-bearing animal breeder can very profitably use a knowledge of genetics in securing crosses which result in the best colors, markings and length of hair. In all cases, genetics promotes clearer thinking on the part of the breeder," Brink declares.

General Farm Notes

Make the farm buildings as ratproof as possible.

Plan the places where the manure will be applied this winter.

Provide a box stall and special feed and care for every cow at freshening time.

If crimson clover is to be grown on land for the first time the seed should be inoculated.

The "recently" hardest task is serving the man who "don't want no body to tell him nothin'."

Make plans for remodeling your dairy barn so as to make it an efficient, healthful stable at least expense.

Loyalty to a co-operative association is a real test of the farmer's character and of his pride in the farming business.

Increase the grain fed to each cow slightly and watch record sheets to see if there is a profitable increase in milk flow.

Study fertilizer needs for next year and the prices and analyses of fertilizer materials. You can save money by doing this.

The "one-year" system of farming—do thought for soil or woodland, up-building—is probably more harmful than the so-called "one-crop" system.

LEGION MAN IS IN BASEBALL

John J. Sullivan, Author of Blacker Resolution, One of Purchasers of Seattle Club.

A fast baseball club for Seattle is one of the aims of John J. Sullivan of Seattle, an active member of the American Legion. He has joined Wade Killefer, formerly manager of the Los Angeles club of the Pacific Coast league, and Charles J. Lockard, well-known Washington business man in the purchase of the club. Harry Wolverton, ace-of-managers of pennant-chasing ball clubs in the West, was selected to lead the club.

Sullivan was born in Massachusetts, but preferred the thrilling environment of the West to the classic surroundings of Cape Cod. He arrived in Seattle in 1904 and set about to complete his education in law in the University of Washington. A poor boy, Sullivan paid his way through the school by holding down a job in the post office. After his admission to the legal profession, he became assistant United States district attorney, and later assistant to the attorney general in Washington. In this legal capacity he served as counsel in many of the most important cases in the West, among them being the prosecution and ultimate conviction of I. W. W. members, who shot down four members of the American Legion in Centralia, Wash., on Armistice day, 1920. Eleven of the thirteen accused men were convicted. Another case of importance with which Sullivan was connected was that of the defense of Madelyn Obenshain and Arthur Burch, accused of the slaying of J. Belton Kennedy, who were freed after three juries had failed to convict them.

Sullivan's connection with baseball originated when he participated in the case of the Seattle Pacific Coast league club against gamblers who sought damages from park owners for their election. The Supreme court ruled against the gamblers, the decision now being frequently used to invoke the right of eviction in other cities. On winning this case, Sullivan associated himself with the new park owners of the Seattle baseball club, and is out to help win the pennant.

During the war Sullivan was an enlisted man in the military intelligence section, playing a prominent part in the settlement of strikes among government workers in the Northwest during the war. He was one of the incorporators of the American Legion, when congress officially established the organization. He was the author of the "alien slacker" resolution adopted by the Legion, and was named to head the Legion's first national committee on the Japanese question.

LEGION IS AN AID TO LABOR

President of Illinois Federation Praised Work of Former Service Men's Organization.

Praise of the work of the American Legion in behalf of the laboring man was voiced by President John Walker of the Illinois Federation of Labor at a recent state conference of Legion commanders and adjutants of Illinois.

"Unionism is indebted to the Legion for the fight you waged against unrestricted immigration which prevented the dumping of foreign hordes upon our shores to destroy the standard of living and of wages," he said. "No union man can help but feel grateful to you for this."

President Walker showed how much a part of one another the Legion and Federation are by quoting some figures:

"In the first war," he said, "there were 680,000 American fighters bearing union cards. But if there had not been a trade unionist in that war, union men could not help but stand for the same principles that are contained in your constitution."

"You have pledged your co-operation in two endeavors of unionism to wipe out illiteracy from this country, and in the campaign for Americanism. A bill has recently gone through the legislature raising the educational requirements of children who have to work from the sixth to the eighth grades. Another law provides kindergartens for poor children and another an education for crippled children. There is a bill now pending to reclaim the mentally defective children."

President Walker declared that at the next convention of the Illinois Federation of Labor he would call to the attention of the executive committee the relationship of labor and the Legion and predicted that labor would back the Legion 100 per cent.

ODDS AND ENDS AND THINGS

By J. D. C.

John Celenski, of Tyler, was a visitor to Clearfield this morning. John was hunting law, and he had a real tale of woe to tell. He lives over the hill from Tyler proper. The principal coal operation at Tyler is removing the coal in the aforesaid hill. The tippie is in the village proper, while an opening off the main heading is located in the side of the hill near the Celenski home.

During the deer hunting season a young Italian from Tyler was coming in tired from a long day's hunt. He was so tired that he decided to make the final lap home through the mine opening, where he could step along at grade instead of climbing up one side of the hill and down the other for twice the distance.

The hunter stopped at Celenski's house to borrow some carbide with which to stock his acetylene miner's lamp in order to light his way over the short cut through the mine. When he went to the door of the house, the carbide borrower leaned his loaded high-power rifle up against the house at the door while he went inside. While Mrs. Celenski was getting the carbide the rifle fell to the porch and the hammer striking the floor discharged the shell in the barrel. The bullet went through the wall of the building and struck Celenski, who was sitting in a rocking chair in the front room, in the right thigh up close to his body, badly shattering the bone and crippling him for life.

Celenski had been a patient in the DuBois hospital, since the accident and his first trip, after being able to get out, was to Clearfield where he consulted District Attorney Arnok with a view to having the gun owner arrested for causing his injury.

Some fearsome tales come out of the Frenchville country from time to time and occasionally you get hold of one you could hardly get yourself to believe, unless you'd happen to know the fellow spinning the yarn has a habit of telling the truth. Here is one of that latter kind that we are going to slip over. We received the following letter yesterday:

Frenchville, Jan. 22, 1924.

Dear Odds and Ends—I saw in your paper the other day a story concerning a flock of wild geese that flew over this section sort of between seasons and noted the controversy between the two old "weather" shake over it. But there is no use getting "het up" over a few wild geese, when down here, we can give you even better evidence that spring is close at hand. Up in these mountains where we hear the frogs croaking we know spring is just around the corner. One evening the fore part of last week a bunch of boys from up Buck Run were on their way to Frenchville and distinctly heard a frog lifting up his voice in his first croak for the spring of 1924.

The robins have been chirping around here already and we were just getting ready to get in our bare feet when the present cold snap hit us.

Yours truthfully,

L. C.

COMMUNITY CENTER AT BISHTOWN

A Bishop Lansberry, of Bishtown, in his quiet unassuming way has been doing one of the worth while things of life.

Over his storeroom is a large hall that has been used as a gathering place for the people. Recently Mr. Lansberry decided to furnish it for a Sunday School room. He put in a heating system, bought the old pews from the West Side M. E. church, and sent for a full Sunday School equipment and started a flourishing graded Sunday School.

The room will probably be used also as a community center.

TOO MANY BANKS

The epidemic of bank failures in certain sections of the West, into which the Federal Reserve Board and the War Finance Corporation are now making inquiries, is not caused wholly by agricultural difficulties, such as reduced land and produce prices. An important cause, which should be considered in helping the banks of that region, is the fact that there are too many banks.

It is reported that there is a bank for every 800 people in the state of North Dakota. Since not all of the 800 in any instance are well to do, there is obviously not enough business to go around and to support all the operations of all the banks.

A permanently bad situation cannot be treated as an emergency, and the government has to go slow in advancing funds to aid institutions which can never hope to maintain themselves even in better times. A lot of those small banks ought to combine.

AN ANTI-GUNMAN LAW

There is some hope, at least, for the protection of honest citizens against gunmen, in the bill introduced in Congress by Senator Copeland, at the suggestion of the chief magistrate of New York City.

This measure seeks to prohibit the importation of revolvers and automatic pistols and to impose a heavy tax on such weapons manufactured in the United States. It would also place an almost prohibitive tax on cartridges.

Such legislation has been recommended by two international conferences of police chiefs and by the American Bar Association. It is in line with suggestions made for several years past by the American press generally. It is not an attack on any vested interest; and though the immediate effects might be annoying to manufacturers of deadly weapons, that would be amply compensated by the immense benefit likely to accrue to the public as a whole.

Almost every violent crime is accomplished with the aid of a pistol. That is what gives the gunman his false courage, and does the killing. Police everywhere agree that if the criminals were disarmed, there would be only a small fraction of the present volume of robberies, hold-ups and murders.

Objections to legislation against such weapons have been based mainly on the fear that they would disarm self-protecting citizens while leaving gunmen armed. Experienced policemen reply that as matters stand, there is little protection in defensive "gun-toting", and that it is not impossible to disarm the criminals by strict regulation of the manufacture and distribution of pistols and cartridges. With the ammunition under legal control, pistols now in the possession of crooks might be rendered harmless.

The traffic in weapons of slaughter could never be absolutely ended, but there is no reason for believing that it would not be greatly lessened, and the modern type of criminal rendered comparatively harmless, by such a remedy as Senator Copeland's.

What Your Ambition

Men who are earning no more than yourself are buying their own homes, seizing business opportunities and making profitable investments.

The systematic accumulation of money in a bank account makes all of these possible. Moreover, it is a good investment in itself.

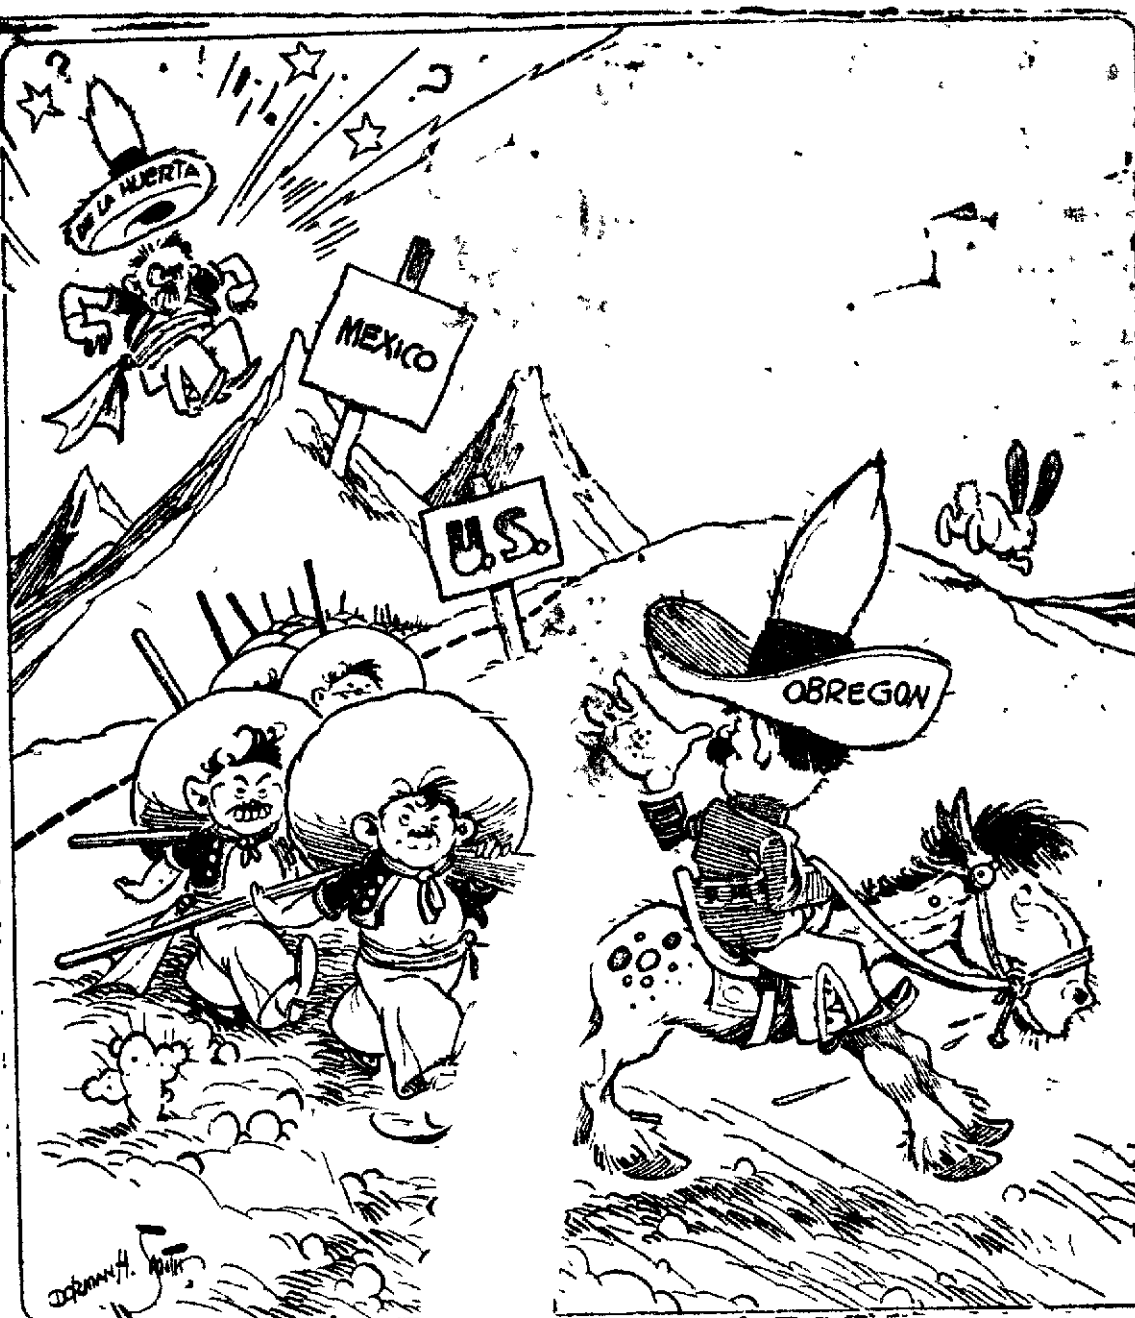

The man who fails to save does none of these things.

BACK TO FATHER

By FLORENCE DAVIES

Dr. Alice F. Blood is president of the American Home Economics Association, as well as being head of the home economics department of Smith College. All of which would indicate that she ought to know something about running a house, even if she is a college professor.

From her jobs one wouldn't expect her to be a radical; but she is. Why, she's advancing the most radical ideas we've heard in a long time, really revolutionary, some of them. This one, for instance:

"For heaven's sake," she cried, "why don't folks use common sense? Then which, you will admit, nothing could be more revolutionary."

And again: "We need less highbrow theory in home management, and a lot more plain commonsense. You can't live on romantic love and marshmallows and French pastry."

Honestly doesn't that make you want to give three good cheers for Dr. Blood? But wait a minute; this one may not strike you housewives as quite so good:

"A wife has no more right to ask her husband to wash the dishes than he has to ask her to do his work."

Still, it's logical, you must admit.

"Colorums" Break Loose Again, Causing General Wood Much Annoyance

Nanila, Jan. 25. (INS.)—The Colorums, a fanatical organization, have succeeded in reaching the Mindanao mainland from the island of Surigao and have cut communications between the towns of Placer and Mamit, where they are reported recruiting followers, burning and pillaging.

Governor General Wood is ready to send more reinforcements to the constabulary and possibly regular scouts if the revolt spreads. Governor Wood's yacht is speeding 150 constabulary to Surigao. The superstition that Rizal, Philippine national hero, has come to life is gaining wide credence in many sections.

HAVE SWAPPED OFFICES

During the first of the year changes about the Court House District Attorney Arnold and County Controller Woodward got together and swapped offices. Woodward got the best of the dicker as he traded the small private office across the hall from the County Commissioners formerly used by the Controller for the larger of the two rooms heretofore making up the official home of the District Attorney.

The district Attorney now has the small room he maintained as his private office, together with the office formerly occupied by the Controller, while that office will be found in the last office in the row and next door to the Arbitration room.

Of course, we know the old argument man's work is done by daylight, while a woman has to keep on forever, so why shouldn't somebody who's got nothing to do, pitch in and help her out? Yes, it's a good argument, if you can make your husband see it.

But heres' a little bit of Dr. Blood's logic for father too:

"For making good American citizens out of children, there's nothing beats the good old fashioned spanking. If the father doesn't spank in the home, the world is going to do the spanking later—and the world spans harder than any parent ever spanked in the world. You can't have a successful home without discipline any more than you can have a successful army without discipline."

Why, what antiquated philosophy. Did I say she was radical? I take it back; Dr. Blood is a reactionary. She would have us all go back to elemental things, to fundamental ideas of father and the family, back to the days when father was the head and center of the home and mother loyally backed him up. The good old days, the days of the simple life. Commonsense, Dr. Blood calls it, and there's bound to be a vast difference of opinion as to whether or not they aren't one and the same thing.

Doctor Opens Up "Color Line" Problem Again

Washington, Jan. 25 (INS.)—Claiming he was discriminated against because of his color E. J. Crosby, a negro physician of Detroit, today filed a complaint with the Interstate Commerce Commission, asking $120,000 damages against the Seaboard Air Line, Southern, Louisville and Nashville and the St. Louis San Francisco railroads, and the Pullman company. He charged that these companies at certain times during 1922 and 1923 did not give him the same accommodations accorded white passengers in violation of the Interstate Commerce Law.

Market News

New York, Jan. 25. (INS.)—Heavy buying of various classes of industrial shares featured the forenoon trading on the Stock Exchange today. Stocks moved ahead, many establishing new highs on the current upswing. U. S. Steel rose 1/8 to 102 1/2 on substantial buying in anticipation of another extra dividend at next Tuesday's meeting.

Other steels also showed improvement. Bethlehem Steel rose over 1 point to 56 1/2, Crucible 3/4 to 67 1/2; Republic 1/2 to 56 and Gulf States Steel 1 point to 84 1/2.

As the result of another rise in Pennsylvania crude oil prices, representative petroleum shares moved forward again.

Marland rose 1/2 to 39 1/2, Sinclair 1 point to 24 1/2; Houston Oil 1 1/2 to 72; Pan American 1 1/2 to 52 1/2, and Coudon 2 1/2 to 37 1/2.

Corn Products continued its sensational advance, rising 2 1/2 points to 181, an advance of nearly 22 points within a week.

MORGAN MAKES BIG BUY OF MARLAND OIL

New York, Jan. 25. (INS.)—J. P. Morgan and Company have purchased 300,000 shares of Marland Oil Company heretofore unissued, it was announced this afternoon by President Marland, of the oil company. It is understood that in return for a substantial cash consideration, J. P. Morgan and Company obtained an option to purchase an additional block of Marland oil stock.

THREE CRITICALLY INJURED IN SECOND BOBSLED ACCIDENT NEAR WARREN, PA.

Meadville, Pa., Jan. 25. (INS.)—Three of the five boys, injured last night in the second serious bobsled accident here in two days, were reported in a critical condition today. The victims, injured when a bobsled carrying 10 persons crashed into an automobile, are: Carl Stadler, 16; Earl Swartz, 14; William Snakely, 14; James Horne, 20, all of Meadville, and Garrett Myers, 18, of Warren, Pa., a freshman at Allegheny College here. Stadler, Swartz and Snakely suffered fractured skulls and probable internal injuries. Their recovery, physicians say, is doubtful. The others suffered only minor hurts.

York stock exchange at around $39 a share, but it was understood that J. P. Morgan and Company contracted to pay $35 a share if it is taken up.

WILL OF MRS. EMMA BEYNTON

The will of the late Mrs. Emma Beynton was recorded in the office of Register and Recorder Bratton yesterday. It provides that annuities of $400 each shall be paid J. Emmett Harder of Clearfield; L. M. Shogers of Philadelphia; and Mrs. Emma Beynton of Philadelphia. Mrs. Shogers is the widow of the late Mrs. Shogers, who was a sister of the late Mrs. Beynton. The remainder of the estate, which amounts to $100,000, is given to the Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church, incorporated by the legislature of the State of New York.

J. B. Neving, of Clearfield, is named as executor, and in case of his death Reuben F. Neving is to act in that capacity.

Tomorrow is BRUSH DAY

Renew Those Worn-out Brushes Round Your Home

A brush is something that you keep passing up, even though it may be worn out—it's one of those things that seem to be neglected round the house until someone puts up a strenuous kick.

We are making tomorrow brush day and with the very wide assortment of brushes we have here you'll find just what you want to replace that worn-out brush at home.

HAIR BRUSHES

Here we have that brush for milady's "hundred strokes" for the good of her hair. We have brushes that are stiff; brushes that are limber. Then too, we have just the brush to make Jack's unruly hair lie straight.

$1.00 to $6.00

CLOTH BRUSHES

They're so handy to have where you hang your clothes. The bristles are stiff enough to take out the spots and will give the ordinary cloths a thorough brushing.

75c to $1.00

NAIL BRUSHES

Here is a variety of brushes for cleansing the nails which will dig right down in and get the dirt. Some of them are rounded with two kinds of bristles. Some have handles so you can have a secure grip on them.

25c to $1.00

BATH BRUSHES

Here is the brush that makes the bath complete. It has the long handle with silky smooth bristles that will not irritate the skin but it will cleanse thoroughly.

$1.25

TOOTH BRUSHES

Here we have to offer some of the nationally advertised kinds along with a wide selection of other kinds. There are brushes to meet your requirements and the prices are such that you should not longer bother with that old one.

25c 35c 50c

SHAVING BRUSHES

We have 'em here with the bristles set in rubber which gets away from that nuisance of mixing bristles with your lather. There are plain handles and fancy handles—stiff and "bendy" bristles.

50c to $3.75

WHISK BROOMS

These do not come under the category of brushes but they should be in every hutch. We have them of a fine corn which will be stiff enough to get the dust and dirt out but not strong enough to injure the fabric.

50c and $1.00

GENTLEMAN'S BRUSH SETS

These are ebony backs with bristles in the brush to do the work it is supposed to do. Two military brushes, one hat brush, one cloth brush, all in fine flannelette case.

Weddings

PATTERSON-KIRK

Mr. Robert Patterson of Pera M., Pa., and Miss Marjorie E. Kirk of East Waterford, Pa., were married in the Methodist parsonage, Woodland, Tuesday evening, January 22d. The Rev. G. R. M. Reidell, pastor of the church, and also a former pastor of the bride, performed the ceremony. Mr. Patterson is the junior member of the firm Patterson Bros., merchants in a thriving center of Juniata county, this state. He is also prominent among the athletic, fraternal and financial circles of his county. Mrs. Patterson is the beautiful and accomplished daughter of J. H. Kirk, merchant at East Waterford, Pa. She is prominent among the social circles of her native town and county, being also an active worker in the Methodist Church at that place. After a tour of the west they will reside at Alexandria, this state, where a new store will be opened by the firm of which Mr. Patterson is a member.

Nature's Stern Law.

Achievement of whatever kind is the crown of effort, the blossom of thought. By the aid of self control, resolution, purity, righteousness and well directed thought a man ascends; by the aid of animality, indolence, impurity, corruption and confusion of thought a man descends.—Allen

Worth While Invitation.

An invitation to a wedding in Cairo is an important event, because instead of being asked for a ten-minute church ceremony or a brief reception, the invitation reads "for three days." There is feasting during all this time, and the house and street are liberally decorated with flags and lanterns.—Brooklyn Eagle.

A Deemster.

Originally a deemster was a judicial officer in Scotland, who formally pronounced the doom or sentence of death on condemned criminals. The name is now given in the Isle of Man to two judges, who act as chief justices of the island.

Combinations in Soap.

The principle of soap-making is always the same and is based on the combination of fat and an alkali, as in the case of tallow and lye. Variations in soaps are largely due to additions of perfumes, coloring matter and such substances, which have nothing to do with the primary purpose of soap, which is to cleanse.

ANOTHER LETTER FROM A FIREMAN

Clearfield, Pa., Jan. 24th, 1924
Dear Sir:

I hope you will give these few lines space in your paper.

I notice in your paper of tonight's issue, Tuesday, Jan. 24th, of Firemen asking for a Triple Combination Pumper to be placed in No. 1 Hose House, on account of the present steam pumper being useless to them as it stands now.

The Elk Hose Co., of the 4th Ward, asked Council a few years ago, probably not quite so long ago, for a Triple Combination Pumper to be placed in the Elk Hose House on Daisy street. I have been expecting to hear of this, since the Elk Hose Co. was turned down and presented with another, instead of what was asked for.

The committee which was selected by the Elk Hose Co., I. G. Johnson and T. W. Carlson to present the matter to the Borough Council. The committee explained to them the importance of Clearfield were practically all in the Fourth Ward of Clearfield and also that they had less water pressure in their end of town, than in other parts of the borough.

What is to become of the present steam pumper when No. 1 gets their new Triple Combination? I suppose it will be placed alongside of the two drawn hook and ladder wagon, which is standing, or on exhibition at the Clearfield Driving Park, as a relic. I am in favor of a Triple Combination Pumper, but I believe in fair play. I am a fireman and a member of the Elk Hose Co.

H. W. CARLSON.

Fleetest of Animals.

The National museum says that the short-distance running cheetah is the fleetest of animals. This animal belongs to the cat family, and is long and slender of body. It is found in India and Africa and is trained to run down automobiles.

A Fear of Air Fishing?

An air fishing tribe of Igor's recently was discovered north of Manila by a hating detachment of United States marines. They fly queer looking kites, with baited hooks at the end of the tails every evening about dusk. They fish for bats in the air.

Consolation.

It's a mighty good thing that you don't get enough to set the river on fire, for in that case what in the world would the fishermen do for a place to put the time away?—Atlanta Constitution.

The Industrious Bee.

The bee has two distinct stomachs. In the first it stores away the honey from the flowers until such time as it is ready to yield it up, while the other stomach is used simply and solely for digestion purposes. When the bee is ready to deposit the honey it contracts the muscles of the stomach and the honey is ejected through the mouth.

Heard Not All Gutenbergs' Printing is said to have been introduced to the world Aug. 14, 1437. John Gutenberg stands at the head of the early typographers, supported by the genius of Schoeffer and the generous patronage of Faust. Gutenberg used only blocks, and to Schoeffer is due the movable type cast from matrices. Caxton, who introduced the art into England, began life as a trader, but learned printing at Cologne. The first printed book on record is "The Psalter," which John Faust and Schoeffer published at Metz in 1457.

Willing to Help the Needy.

A famous woman teacher, eighty years old, was sitting on the veranda of a college dormitory in her wheel chair. A student had just brought her some ice water in her silver mug and the teacher had finished drinking it when some tourists came up, saw her sitting there holding out her cup, and they dropped a half dollar in it. Imagine their feelings when they discovered who the "beggan" was!

Nature's Color Scheme.

Imagine the grass of the field and the leaves of the forest created blue, or magenta, or scarlet. Instead of green! Some speculative scientists are red, and that the people there are seeing red continually. It would be difficult to believe that keeping the peace on this good green earth is not as hard as it would be had our planet been painted red in the beginning.—Minneapolis Journal.

The Thoughtless Answer.

A certain Kansas City physician will never know just how near death he was the other day when, after a thorough examination of probably the brightest, sweetest and altogether supreme nine-months-old baby in the world, the mother asked, "Well, what do you think of my baby?" and he said, "Oh, it's a normal child."

Washington a Thorough Farmer. Washington was a good farmer and always wanted to learn. As America had produced no books on agriculture at that early date, he was forced to try many experiments. The year when he was busy with the making of the federal Constitution he experimented with oats, his dairy cows.

Cathedral Resembles Grass Hill. Of the world's cathedrals, probably the most curious is that which crowns a hill in Uganda. In appearance it resembles nothing so much as a mountain of grass, although on closer inspection one is able to see that mud and wood have been extensively employed. The structure can accommodate 4,000 people.

Snow and Fireflies.

The oriental is always and ever picturesque. The student of the East does not "burn the midnight oil." He works by snow and fireflies. There is an ancient legend about a Chinese student who was too poor to buy oil. So in the summer months he studied all night by the light of fireflies caught and imprisoned in a paper lantern, and in the winter by the reflection of the snow.—Gertrude Emerson in World Outlook.

New Idea in Transportation.

A "locotractor" has been developed for use in Africa. The weight of the car and cargo is supported on metal rails, but the vehicles are driven by rubber-shod wheels running on prepared strips of road metal on each side of the tracks. This arrangement is said to be very effective.

Cossacks Claim Rodeo Idea.

To prove their contention that the wild west stunts of the rodeo were offshoots of the Russian Cossack training, Prince Gurev, Colonel Kereoff and Captain Natroff visitors from Russia, recently took part in a rodeo program of horsemanship, doing in their Cossack manner many of the daring stunts exhibited by the cowboys.

Steel Magnetism.

The United States bureau of standards says: "Place the steel within a solenoid or between the poles of a direct-current electromagnet and subject it to the influence of a gradually decreasing magnetic field which is being reversed at a comparatively low frequency, approximately one or two cycles per second being most satisfactory."

New York's Indian Reservations. There are Indian reservations at Erie, Cattaraugus county; Onondaga reservation at Onondaga; Oneida reservation, Syracuse; St. Regis reservation, Franklin county; Shinnecock reservation, Southampton L. I.; Tonawanda reservation in counties of Erie and Genesee, and the Tuscarora reservation in Niagara county. Some of these reservations are quite large, running up to 7,500 acres. They are open to visitors almost any time.

His One Wish.

Mrs. Honey—"I can read you like a book, William." Mr. H.—"Then I wish you'd do more reading and less questioning."

MRS. HARDING GIVEN FREE USE OF MAILS

Washington, Jan. 25. (INS)—President Coolidge today for the first time affixed his signature to a bill passed by Congress.

It was an act giving Mrs. Florence Kling Harding, widow of the late President, the congressional franking privilege—so that she can use the United States mails without the payment of postage.

"W" is Popular. In the English language there are more surnames beginning with "W" than any other letter.

Ouch! Such Pain!

It takes you right in the back! Sometimes in the arm, hip or foot. It's all due to an overabundance of that poison, called uric acid. The kidneys are not able to get rid of it. Such conditions you can readily overcome, and prolong life by taking the advice of Dr. Pierce, which is, "Keep the kidneys in good order." Avoid too much meat, alcohol or tea. Drink plenty of pure water, preferably not water, before meals, and drive the uric acid out of the system by taking Anuric. This can be obtained at any drug store, in tablet form. Ask for Dr. Pierce's Anuric Tablets and backache remedy.

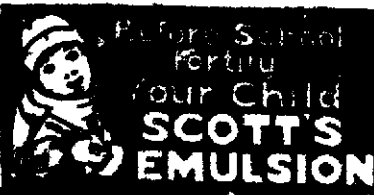

Lebanon, Pa.—"For four months I was confined to my home quite unable to work. I could not sleep at night, because of too frequent kidney action and the secretion burned like scalding water. During that four months I had three different doctors with the hope that one of them would prescribe something that would help me, but it was not until I began to take Dr. Pierce's Anuric Tablets that I felt a real getting better. I was soon back at my work again, and am glad to say that both my kidneys and bladder are in a fine healthy condition."—John A. Bender, 518 Light Avenue.

Send 10c for trial package to Dr. Pierce's Invalid Hotel in Buffalo, N. Y.

Susan B. Anthony Once Fined. Susan B. Anthony was the first American suffragist to be arrested for her principles. In order to test the Fourteenth and Fifteenth amendments she cast ballots at the state and congressional elections at Rochester in 1872. She was indicted for illegal voting and a fine imposed. She definitely refused to pay the fine, but was never jailed.

Fatal Effect.

"Yesterday afternoon he read his copy of the Eagle. Three hours later he died."—From an obituary in the Brooklyn Eagle.

Everywhere Expresses Contempt.

The tongue has a single purpose in everybody knows what it means. It is thrust out to express contempt. The little girl who "sticks out her tongue" does not realize that her action is as ladylike, backs back to the neck as it is. It is undoubtedly a most ancient mode of conveying the idea of contempt. Everywhere in the world, among savage and civilized peoples, the lingual gesture has the same recognized significance.

Lawsuit That Lasted 400 Years.

The longest lawsuit on record lasted over 400 years. It was a dispute about some land in Poland. The people interested being the Sobieskis of Orzowo and the Sobieskis of Podlowa. It began in the year 1480 and a settlement was arrived at in 1880 the land being then divided among the then representatives of the original litigants.

STOP! STOP! STOP!

There are many eggs of small insects that are hatching all the time. The ray of sunlight, falling usually upon the side of a tree or upon a rock, will hatch out many of these eggs. The little creatures wriggle through the grass for a few minutes before perishing. Possibly it is a fly with them when they are hatched, and do not flourish. They do not spread and propagate their kind when they are out in winter.

COCONUT TREE'S MANY VIRTUES

The coconut is one of the most useful of all trees in the tropics of the regions where the coconut grows. The nut supplies a food and drink and the milk of the nut can be made into an intoxicant which is used as a stimulant. Its fiber is used for making ropes, rugs and matting and the husk for fuel. The wood is very durable and in the hands of the natives it is used for many purposes.

LIVE STOCK FACTS

Earning Power of Pure Bred Higher Than Scrub

Based on utility alone—apart from breeding or sales value—pure bred live stock has an earning power from a third to one-half greater than scrub stock. The average superiority of pure breeds over scrubs for all classes of farm animals is about 40 per cent.

Of the principal points in which pure breeds excel other stock, the most prominent are: Superiority and uniformity in conformation and type, greater sale value, early maturity, and economy in the conversion of feed into meat, milk, wool, and work.

Superior pure breeds are readily salable at satisfactory prices in the majority of cases; but much depends on the breeding and production records and the business ability of the breeder.

With rare exceptions, pure bred sires are satisfied with the quality of the offspring obtained, except that the desire is created in many cases to improve the quality still further.

The progeny of pure bred sires has practically a 50 per cent greater sale value than the progeny of sires not pure bred.

Pure bred sires of good quality are readily obtainable in the experience of three-fourths of the breeders reporting. The principal difficulties are: Paying the price and finding the desirable type, but there is practically unanimous agreement that the results justify the cost.

The average increase in financial returns from live stock raising, traceable to the use of pure bred sires is 45 per cent.

Docking of Lambs Great Help at Time of Selling

Farmers who are engaged in the sheep industry often forget to dock and castrate their lambs. Live stock commission men and packers are staunch supporters of castration and docking of lambs for market purposes and pay more for animals which have received this attention.

"Castration of lambs is a simple operation and if performed at the proper time the lamb does not mind it, and there is little risk attached," says Prof. Phil A. Anderson, animal husbandry expert at University farm at St. Paul, Minn. "The operation should be done when the lamb is ten days to two weeks old; older lambs can be unsexed but with more risk. Use any good disinfectant, having hands and knife clean. The lower one-third of the scrotum is removed and the testicles forced out. The spermatic cord should be drawn out with the fingers and cut off with a knife by a scraping manner in order to prevent excessive bleeding. After the operation is completed, apply a disinfectant. If blowflies are abundant, apply a little clean pine tar."

"Lambs that have not been docked present a poor appearance when marketed, but the main reason for docking is that lambs on summer pasture often scur. Such conditions invite the blow-fly and maggots and often the lamb is lost."

Breeding Ewes Require Exercise During Winter

One very important factor in winter breeding ewes is to see that they get plenty of exercise. Lack of exercise is one of the causes of weak lambs. When it can be arranged, at least a part of the roughage should be fed in the field at some distance from the barn or shed and the ewes should be out every day that the weather is fair. In fact, for best results, the ewe should have the equivalent of at least a mile of exercise each day.

In sheltering ewes, protect them from cold rains and driving storms. Many people make the mistake of not housing their ewes until they have become wet or until practically all damage has been done. Low temperature in the barn or shed is not serious so long as the sheep are dry under foot and over head. Have ventilation without strong drafts. Danger lies in having a barn too warm and damp.

"Hard Luck" With Pigs Traced to Improper Feed

A great deal of the so-called "hard luck" with young pigs soon after farrowing can be traced directly to improper feeding and in most cases to overfeeding of the sows. Just because a sow seems hungry just after farrowing is no indication that she should receive feed.

A liberal supply of water should always be available. This will usually satisfy and quiet the sow. She should receive very little feed for at least 24 hours after farrowing. The first few feeds of grain should be light and fed in the form of thick slop. She should not be on full feed for from six to ten days after farrowing.

System in Feeding Pigs to Be Used for Breeding

There should be system in feeding pigs that are to be used for breeding, and that system should have for its purpose rapid growth and early maturity; but, at the same time, they should be fed for growth of frame and not fattened on corn. In addition a limited amount of fibrous food should be given with each feed. Alfalfa is among the best. The leaves, when slightly wilted, are greatly relished in winter.

TO FIGHT RADICAL TEACHING

Tacoma Woman Donates to Establish Chair at Pacific University at Forest Grove, Ore.

A practical means of combating the industrial, social and economic unrest being fostered in this country by the I. W. W. and other radical forces, has been found, it is believed, in the recent establishment of the American Legion chair of history and patriotism at Pacific University, Forest Grove, Ore.

This department, conceived by Legionnaires when the effect of returned ex-service men began to make itself manifest in stabilizing the restless unemployed, became an accomplished fact when Mrs. Robert L. McCormick of Tacoma, Wash., long a friend of the ex-service man, donated $100,000 to the perpetuation of the chair.

The movement to establish the chair of history and patriotism was started early last spring. American Legion men, seeing possibilities in the policy of the Pacific university, whereby free scholarships were given all ex-service men, suggested that the university lay before the various patriotic organizations of the country the matter of stabilizing its patriotic program. A move to establish the American Legion chair of history and patriotism resulted and culminated in the gift of Mrs. McCormick.

Of the amount donated by Mrs. McCormick half was used in the erection of a building to house the department. The remaining $50,000 forms an endowment fund which assures the permanence of the chair.

The expressed purpose of the department is to teach and foster the ideas and ideals of the founders of the country and to perpetuate in the lives of posterity the heroic service and sacrifice of the American Legion.

Aside from classroom lectures on the essentials of patriotism, the course of study includes a laboratory course in the investigation of social, industrial and economic conditions of unrest; of the cause of the rise and fall of nations and the means whereby the dry rot which eats at the heart of government may be combated.

An example of the practical field work being accomplished by the students of the department is seen in a recent threatened disturbance in mill towns along the coast. American Legion students went into the troubled district, gained the confidence of the workers, and succeeded in averting any disturbance.

Such field work will be extended in the future to include investigation and the making of reports on industrial conditions. It has been found that where the students are well posted on conditions, the outbreak may be averted in many instances.

POST POLLS OPEN TWO DAYS

Modern City Methods Used at Election Conducted by the Douglas County (Neb.) Legion.

With the largest membership of any post in the United States, the Douglas county (Neb.) post of the American Legion, when confronted by its recent elections, solved the problem by a system as comprehensive and efficient as any city or state election system. Polls were established in the county courthouse and were kept open from 7:30 a. m. until 6 p. m. on two consecutive days. A board of election commissioners sat at the courthouse during the polling and passed on the eligibility of each voter. None was allowed to ballot who had not paid up his dues for the year. Absentee voters sent their ballots by mail and telegraph, the board passing on the authenticity of the ballots. The only trouble in the election was the insistence of some enthusiastic politicians who tried to carry their electioneering almost to the curtain of the voting booth. It was found necessary to establish a dead line for the amateur politicians some distance from the polls.

Will Receive Medal.

In recognition of her service as first president of the first department of the American Legion auxiliary and as presiding chairman of the first national convention, Dr. Helen Hughes Hiescher of Makoto, Minn., will receive a gold medal from the National Legion Auxiliary. A committee is now working on the design for the medal.

Compensation Time Limit.

Officials of the Kansas department, American Legion, are sending out warning to all ex-service men of the state concerning the final date of filing for state compensation. No applications will be received after January 1, 1924, it is said.

High honors were awarded six county agents this year by a committee of agriculturists for soil-fertility programs developed in their counties. The winners were awarded diplomas certifying their work and were given a trip to Chicago where they attended a meeting of the American Society of Agronomy.

The county agents winning this distinction were: F. R. Churchill, Middlebury, Vermont; R. E. Wilson, Dover, Delaware; C. F. Class, Lebanon, Ohio; R. E. Gwin, Columbus, Kansas; E. C. Roth, Brainerd, Minnesota; and Walter F. Gahn, Portsmouth, Ohio.

The committee of judges who passed on the soil-fertility program of the county agents were Professor Bear, Ohio State university; Dr. A. G. McCall, University of Maryland; S. B. Haskell, Massachusetts experimental station; Professor M. F. Miller, University of Missouri.

RURAL ELECTRIC LINE TEST IN MINNESOTA

To Ascertain if Service Can Be Made Successful.

Minnesota is to have the first trial rural electric line in the United States. It is to be built under the joint supervision of farmers, agricultural college experts and power company officials. When completed, it will be put to its real test. This test consists of experiments to ascertain definitely whether rural line electric service can be made an economic success from the standpoint of both farmer and power company.

This definite program is the result of representative farmers and Northern States Power company officials joining in a series of meetings starting last January and culminating in a meeting held in St. Paul, September 27th last and bids fair to solve the rural electric line problem in Minnesota and blaze the trail for the rest of the nation.

It was agreed that a trial electric line some five miles long in a typical southern Minnesota farming community, should be built.

By a unanimous vote, J. E. Reed, president of the Minnesota Farm Bureau federation, presiding at the meeting, was instructed to appoint a committee of seven, with himself as chairman, and the committee to include Dean W. C. Coffey, of the Minnesota College of Agriculture, with five other members to represent the farmers and company.

By further motion, this committee was instructed not only to take charge of experiments in the use of electrically-driven equipment on this trial line, but to make a complete survey of the entire power situation on the Minnesota farms, both in the farm home and on the farm itself.

The report drawn up by this committee listed the advantages of electricity on the farm as follows:

1. Convenience in lighting the house and barn with consequent dispensing with kerosene lamps and lanterns.
2. Labor saving for the farmer and his wife. This might be subdivided as follows: (a) Labor saving for both husband and wife which would merely ease their daily burdens, but which would neither produce more money nor save money. (b) Labor saving devices which would preclude the necessity of hiring household help for the wife and labor saving devices which would preclude the necessity of hiring an assistant for the farmer.
3. Electrically-driven and operated farm equipment which would actually produce additional dollars on the farm.
4. E. A. White, director of the committee on the relation of electricity to agriculture, declared at the end of the meeting that Minnesota had taken a step which placed it in advance of all the rest of the nation.

"We are starting right," he said. "This is the first time in history of this problem of rural electric service that farmers and power company men have sat down together to work out their problem on a basis of mutual understanding. Wherever this line is built, I think I can promise co-operation of the manufacturers of electrical-driven equipment, for this will be the first line of this kind in the United States, and we will see to its complete electrification. Anything of a purely experimental nature will go into it at no cost to the farmer."

Maryland Co-Op. Progresses.

Membership in the Maryland egg marketing pool continues to grow. It is expected that sufficient membership to represent the 100,000 hens necessary in order that the Atlantic Coast Poultry Producers' association may open an egg marketing exchange in Baltimore, will be secured within the next few weeks.

Egg circles have been organized in most of the farm bureau counties.

EXCHANGES MARKET CABBAGE

Co-operative Associations Recommended at Conference of Growers in Chicago.

A resolution recommending that co-operative marketing associations be set up in the late cabbage growing states was adopted at the national cabbage growers' conference held by the American Farm Bureau federation in Chicago.

State co-operatives are to be set up on the commodity basis with growers contracts covering a period of not less than three years. The county or local associations will be federated into state exchanges with proper provisions for grading, pooling, storage and orderly selling.

The resolution further recommends: "that when a sufficient number of state cabbage exchanges have been formed that they be co-ordinated into a national group.

A national cabbage growers' advisory committee is being appointed. Members of the committee thus far named are: Walton Peters, co-operative marketing director, A. F. B. F.; K. C. Livermore, New York; Walter McCallen, Minnesota; John G. Jones, Wisconsin; and C. W. Wald, Ohio. E. B. Heaton, of the A. F. B. F. staff, will actively promote organization work.

AIMS OF RESEARCH COUNCIL

Will Stimulate and Co-ordinate Studies on Agricultural Economic Problems.

The midwest agricultural economics research council, organized at the research conference called last summer by President Boardman of the American Farm Bureau federation, is now beginning to function with R. H. Critchfield as executive secretary.

Mr. Critchfield comes directly from the United States Department of Agriculture, where he was working as farm business analyst. He is a Middle West man, has had experience in farming and has served on the faculties of the North Dakota Agricultural college and University of Minnesota.

The object of the council is to stimulate and co-ordinate research work on agricultural economic problems. The council will have headquarters at 139 North Clark street, Chicago. The organization committee in charge consists of H. W. Moorhouse, American Farm Bureau federation, chairman; George E. Stephens, Illinois chamber of commerce; Dr. Benjamin Hiltbrand, University of Wisconsin; A. A. Schoenfeld, United States bureau of agricultural economics.

Bones of Ancient Americans.

Interesting remains of an ancient American race have been found in a mound at Santa Barbara, Cal. Scientists declare that skeletons found near the surface in their excavations were buried long before Europeans set foot in that section. It is estimated that the most recent remains found date back at least 500 years. Not a tooth in any of the skulls unearthed shows evidence of decay, although all are much worn, due evidently to sand and grit in the food eaten. The front teeth in some instances were found to be as large as the molars of the average modern white man. The sutures of a number of the skulls had grown together, indicating that their owners lived to a great age. Among the bones were found a lump of yellow paint and one of red which passed current as money among these primitive people.—Current History.

Needed Inventions.

The English scientist who wrote that widely-copied list of much-needed inventions merely skirted the subject. Here are a few long-felt wants he entirely overlooked: A telephone that will automatically shock the bore who has talked over five minutes. A lawnmower that will toss nails and stones over the neighbor's fence instead of trying conclusions with them. A cellar furnace that will open its doors and feed coal into itself when the fire gets low. A fountain pen that will say "I'm empty" before you start to sign your name, instead of silently ceasing to flow after you've made your first initial. An alarm clock that will reach out its hands and gently open one's eyes and smile down into them, instead of searing one half to death.—Boston Transcript.

Strong-Minded Woman.

Little Dollie's father was an Indian official. He was also rather afraid of his wife, who was one of those strong-minded women.

One day the little girl was taken out for a drive with her father and some of his friends.

Suddenly a loud roar was heard in the distance, and before long a sleek-looking tiger came into view from among the undergrowth at the side of the track.

Each of the men in turn tried to shoot the beast. One after another they failed, and with each failure the little girl got more and more excited.

Finally, turning to her father, she exclaimed in a high-pitched voice: "Oh, daddy, couldn't we take it home and let mummy shoot it?"

May Reform Calendar.

Now that the Greek churches have abandoned the old Julian calendar and brought their year into agreement with that of all the European and of the American nations the time is ripe, many persons think, for a thoroughgoing reform of the Gregorian calendar itself. The advocates of the improved calendar of thirteen months of just four weeks each, and one extra day, to be known as "New Year's day," are reviving their arguments and predicting the early adoption of their system by the world. They are as hopeful as well as a logical group, but we think they will find the going harder than they expect.

Taking Her Choice.

There was a new attendant at the Spiritualist meeting and he had formerly been employed in a big department store. This fact came to light when a client requested him to tell the medium that she wished to speak with Mr. Green.

"Certainly, madam," said the new attendant. "Can you give me his Christian name?"

"I'm afraid I've forgotten it, but he only died quite recently."

The attendant cleared his throat and approached the medium.

"Please show the lady some of the latest shades of Green," he said.

Lettuce Has High Place in Diet.

Lettuce is one of the most important of all the succulent vegetables. There is only slight food value in lettuce, while its mineral salts are of use in the process of metabolism. It is a wholesome, digestible, cooling and agreeable vegetable. The principal salts are the oxalate, malate, nitrate and sulphate of potash, chloride of potash and phosphates of lime and magnesium. Lettuce is also classed among the chief iron-giving vegetables. Iron helps to build red corpuscles. It also contains potassium, which helps to build cells.

New Zealand Comes In.

Radio telegraphic regulations for amateur, experimental and broadcast stations have been approved by the New Zealand cabinet. The dominion is divided into four radio districts—Auckland, Wellington, Canterbury and Otago—each with inspectors. Evidence of British nationality must be furnished by applicants for licenses, and a declaration of secrecy regarding public correspondence is required. The broadcasting of any information which might be regarded in the light of propaganda is forbidden.

Young Crab Wears Helmet.

The crab that wears the armor-covered specimen we are in the habit of seeing him, in his young days he is like a tadpole, except that he has on his head what looks like a little round spike. At this time of his life he swims about actively. Presently he sheds the skin he is wearing and emerges looking totally different. The spiked cap is gone; the eyes that formerly were flush with his head are now mounted on stalks. Later he adopts a sideways gait, and becomes the crab we know.

WORDS OF WISE MEN

It is proverbially even to attempt a vain activity.

A man should keep his friendships constant in repair.

He that laughs at me today may have cause to laugh at him tomorrow.

Not our age, but what we accomplish, is the just measure of our length of life.

A person who harbors no resentment is usually safe in the harbor of contentment.

Every good deed that we do is not only a present pleasure, but a support for the future.

Life is a book of many wonders and should be found clean and wholesome in every man's library.

There are no incidents so unfortunate that skillful men will not draw from them some advantage.

If we were handed back all we had given and compelled to live on it for a time many would soon starve.

Never tell evil of a man. If you do not know it for certainty, then ask yourself, "Why should I tell it?"

Some people are more learned than wise. To be useful all learning must be blended with much common sense.

We all lower ourselves by our eagerness to grab up faults in other people's characters, writings, doings or religious opinions.

If we do not learn some things that are not in books, we shall fail, but if we do not learn some things in books, we shall not go far.

We would live in a vastly more congenial world if only we were looking among our fellow men for likenesses, instead of differences.

It is idleness that creates impossibilities, and where men care not to do a thing they shelter themselves under a persuasion that it cannot be done.

We need not be afraid that we shall go too far in serving others. There is no likelihood that any of us will become too bountiful, too kind, too helpful to his neighbor.

BUSINESS TIPS

Sorrows can enrich more deeply than success.

Life is like tennis in that the player who doesn't serve well usually loses in the end.

If your concern isn't being run well, are you doing anything to help to have it run better?

Cutting remarks about the bosses have cut more than one foolish employee loose from his job.

If you can't have things done your way, jump in and do your darnedest to get them done the other way.

"The Lord is my Shepherd; I shall not want." That conviction immovably anchored in the heart is worth no words nor figures can express it.

The man who cannot fill his heart with love for his fellow mortals may fill his pay envelope or his bank account to overflowing, but he still remains a pitiable bankrupt, a lamentable failure.

Cause of Root Knot and Way to Control

Much Damage Done by Disease of Plants

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

A serious disease of plants known as root knot and root gall causes immense damage in all except the northern parts of this country. The United States Department of Agriculture, and attention should be directed to the continued spread of the disease in order that effective measures may be adopted for its control. Root knot is the cause of serious damage to many crops. The extent of the damage is difficult to estimate, but it is both direct and indirect and many cases in overlooked entirely. The direct damage is that caused to the growing crops. The indirect damage results from the fact that the presence of the disease makes it impossible to grow certain crops which are particularly susceptible to injury.

The disease is fully discussed in a new bulletin issued by the United States Department of Agriculture, "Farmers' Bulletin 1345." Control methods suggested vary under different conditions. Some crops are resistant to the disease and these may be used on infested soil. The disease may be eliminated in green houses and seed beds by the application of steam under high pressure or by the introduction of uninfested soil into which white washed benches. The house and stable benches of the South can be well brought back into production by a special grain and chicken garden rotation.

Those interested in this subject may secure the bulletin, while the supplies last, from the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Profitable for Farmers to Begin Raising Colts

That the time has arrived when the farmer will find it profitable to begin raising the colts which will be needed soon to replace the old horses on his farm, and that should he raise a few more, he can have the good dependable draft type, they will be readily salable at a profitable price by the time they reach a valuable age, are outstanding conclusions drawn by W. H. Peters, chief of the division of animal husbandry, University of Minnesota, in Special Bulletin No. 30, entitled, "The Colt as Profitable Product," and issued by the agricultural extension service. Mr. Peters contends it will not be long until the purchasing power or value of horses will start definitely upward. Old horses are dying off much more rapidly than colts are coming on to take their places, he says. In this new bulletin of 20 pages Mr. Peters not only analyzes present-day problems in horse raising, but discusses the feeding and care of horses. Copies of the bulletin can be had without cost upon application to the office of publication, University Farm, St. Paul.

Winter Water Supply Is Important for Poultry

The modern hen eats a balanced dry mash for egg production but it takes water to wash down that mash. So it pays a keeper a galvanized pail of fresh water near the mash hopper. If the pail is placed in a small wooden shoe box just a little wider than the diameter of the pail, it will not be tipped over when the hens jump up on the side.

If iron pails are used for winter drinking fountains you have a rooster that is easy to wear and clean. A little boiling water and a few cold cups will soon scrub the water from the drinking pails and make the water more healthful and appetizing. Heat relief clean water and drink more of it when the fresh supply arrives. The use of clean pails is a great help in keeping down the spread of respiratory diseases.

Keep all of the young animals growing by supplying abundant ration, relatively high in protein.

Sanitation and prevention is the best insurance against such contagious diseases as hog cholera.

Keep the live stock sheltered and bedded during the rainy season, and have save feed and fatalities from pneumonia.

Large boxes, barrels, or shelters are provided as nests for geese, or they are allowed to make nests on the floor of the house.

Hens are never so happy as when they are knee-deep in straw or other scratching for larvae of grain. The agencies is what makes them peckable, too.

Have pails and bins in good shape and condition for heavy egg production. Wash the house clean, water well ventilated, dry. Feed a good balanced ration.

When exposed farm machinery meets with weather the result is junk.

INTRUSION OF GYPSIES INTO FRANCE AND FALL OF NOTRE DAME SPECTACULAR SCENES

The intrusion of the gypsies into the population of France until they became an important element later from just prior to the period in which Victor Hugo placed his story, "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," the pictured production of which made by Universal, which comes for a three day run at the Driggs Theatre Monday, Jan. 28th. The fact that the author made his heroine, Esmeralda, a gypsy is important in considering the time of which he writes because he makes her the adopted ward of Clopin, the king of the Parisian beggars and thieves.

These nomads, arising from undetermined origin, though their English name is said to be a corruption of "Egyptian," were undoubtedly the off-scouring of many nationalities, outlaws for any reason from escape from vassalage to conviction of crime. The gypsy of France at that period, called by the French "Bohemians" because the first band appearing there said that they came from Bohemia, resorted to the time-honored pursuit of fortune-telling and alchemy. They were, too, in the poorly policed lands of that age notorious for thievery. Their practice of stealing children for barter or rearing was also notable and won for them detestation.

Though Hugo does not state so, Esmeralda might well have been one of these stolen children. He gives her Spanish characteristics which might go to prove the genesis of his conception of her. The freedom (Continued On Page Two.)

Time Approaches When Autoist Must Have All His Cards With Him

Harrisburg, Jan. 23.—Benjamin G. Eynon, Registrar of Motor Vehicle, announced today that on and after March 1, 1924, every operator of a motor vehicle must have with him his 1924 operator's license. Owners' drivers' licenses, paid drivers' licenses and operators' licenses for the year 1923 are valid up to Feb. 29, 1924, only.

The motor patrol has orders to bring information against every operator on the highways who does not possess a 1924 operator's license after March 1, 1924.

Blanks are being distributed daily by the Automobile Division to notaries public, justices of the peace and others who apply either in person, or by mail. The blank need not be sworn to.

All applications received in Harrisburg are immediately acted upon and the Division can handle 75,000 applications daily. It cannot, however, handle 1,000,000 in the last week prior to March 1, and waiting is given operators that immediate delivery will not be guaranteed on applications received later than Feb. 28.

The Division daily is receiving from 7,500 to 12,000 applications for operators' license, and notice has been given in advance that 1923 operators' licenses will not be renewed after Feb. 28.

-better biscuits

Lighter, tastier, finer-grained, more wholesome biscuits than you ever made, ever saw or ever tasted. No biscuits, in any way, can compare with those made with Calumet Baking Powder. The same is true of all bakings, doughnuts, cakes, muffins—everything that is leavened with Calumet.

Calumet is so perfectly made, you are always absolutely sure of the best results. There is never a minute of uncertainty or doubt. Its strength never changes. It never weakens. Every spoonful of every can is of the highest quality and purity.

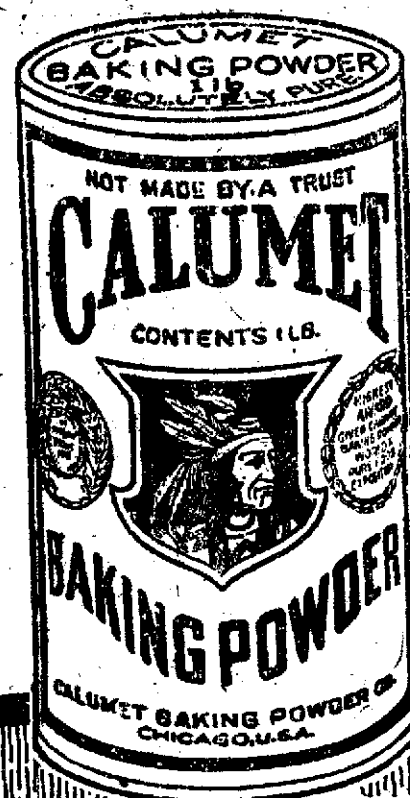

CALUMET

The Economy BAKING POWDER

The most economical of all baking powders. You save when you buy it—you save when you use it—has more than the ordinary leavening strength—therefore you use less. You save materials it is used with because there are no spoiled bakings. Calumet is the world's biggest selling baking powder, simply because it has demonstrated to millions of housewives that it's the most dependable and economical. It is pure in the can—pure in the baking.

CALUMET BISCUITS

3 level cups of flour
3 level teaspoonfuls of Calumet Baking Powder

HOW TO MAKE THEM—Sift all dry ingredients together. Then work in shortening thoroughly. Next add cold milk or water, mixing to a soft dough. Turn dough on floured board and roll out lightly $\frac{1}{8}$ inch thick. Cut into biscuits and lay in baking pan. Let stand for five minutes; then bake in hot oven.

This is positively one of the best biscuit recipes ever formulated. Cut out and paste in your recipe book for future reference.

Calumet is manufactured in the largest, finest, most sanitary Baking Powder factories in existence.

Sold under a positive guarantee of "Money-Back"—if it doesn't give better results at less expense than any other baking powder you ever used—regardless of price.

Try it! Have greater baking success—more wholesome and delicious foods. Save money, time, worry—and lots of it.

The sale of Calumet is over 150% greater than that of any other baking powder.

Don't Overlook This!

A pound can of Calumet contains full 16 ounces. Some baking powders come in 12 ounce instead of 16 ounce cans. Be sure you get a pound when you want it.

Vigorous Old Age

Why separate youth and old age with a deep and overwhelming gulf? The union of youth and the hardy, sturdy vigor of Old Age—sixteen and over—should be separated only by the span of years and not by varying differences of physical wholeness.

Vigorous old age is within the grasp of all. B. B. B. brings that hale and hearty feeling back with a rush. Rich red blood is the greatest enemy of weakening, health undermining Old Age. B. B. B. builds Red Blood Cells. Rich, red blood coursing through your veins sweeps away impurities that retard the proper functioning of your system. Old Age—once a dreaded enemy becomes a vigorous, enjoyable, care free time of life.

B. B. B. is made of carefully selected herbs and barks—scientifically prepared and properly blended. Welcome Old Age when it comes. Be ready to withstand the attack of disease that follow in its wake. Meet Old Age with a hearty handshake. A handshake that speaks of well being—of a vigorous, clear thinking, red blooded constitution. B. B. B. is your best friend when Old Age is seen rounding the corner. STEPHANIE

A VERY unusual name is Stephanie. It is a name of great value and represents a revival of interest in the old Greek names which had far more significance than our modern names. Stephanie, for instance, originated with the Greek goddess where the wrath of the conqueror was an appropriate allusion to those games where the Greek youth delighted in combat. The wrath was called a stephanos, and it is more than likely that the first proper name Stephanie was so called by a proud family whose representative had returned with a leafy crown on his brow.

Stephanie, the contraction, was an old Greek name borne by the son of Thucydides, before it was given to the Hellenist dream who achieved, the greatest of all victories and won the spiritual crown. Old Greek hymn writers celebrated this accordance of name and destiny.

Then by some a crown implied. Monthly they in praise their deity For the crown of righteousness.

Stephanie is the feminine form approved in Greece; it also signifies a crown. It received a sacred prominence since no less than seven saints bore the masculine form of it, including the great Saint Stephen the martyr. The English gained its use in a song, through William the Conqueror, who dedicated to Saint Stephen the altar built at Caen to expiate the marriage with the already betrothed Matilda.

The English have placed the stamp of their own feeling upon it, and while using Stephanie to a large extent also favor Stephanie. The French call her Stephanie, Stephanie, Kristina, and Stephanie. Stephanie is the Portuguese form and Stephanie, the German. Russia changes her to Stephanie and Stephanie.

Stephanie is a name which will protect her from all harm, and is said to attract divine favor to its wearer. Her lucky day is Wednesday and 3 is her lucky number. (© by Wheeler Hydrate Inc.)

Bedroom Carries Disqualification.
I never knew a man that was bad, for any service that was good. There was always some disqualifying incident mixing with the commendation, and spoiling it. The accomplishment of anything good is a physical impossibility in such a man. He could not if he would, and it is not more certain that he would not if he could do a good and virtuous action. — Burke.

Charles Jones

Vincennes, Ind., was the place where Charles Jones, the "movie" star, first saw the light. Starting his career as a cow-puncher on the Triangle-Bar ranch, he enlisted in the United States cavalry, went to the Philippine islands, helped put down the Moro rebellion, came back and joined a Wild West show. Overseas, before the United States entered the war, he was attached to a French replacement camp for heroes. His remarkable riding won the attention of Premier Clemenceau and the King of Belgium. At the close of the war he was engaged by a prominent producer to enter western pictures.

from social restrictions has been the dominant quality of the gypsy, and in the troublous times in medieval Europe this class flourished. This freedom also clothes them with considerable romance, for the mind of those subject to law and rule find glamor in that which, though it does not release them, frees others. Their more organized modern prototypes are the lowly hoboes afflicted with the nomadic spirit and often criminal in intent, though restricted to male membership.

The temperament of the gypsy makes love of music, especially the wild airs that suggest unrestraint, a paramount trait. Many of them were and are remarkable musicians. Esmeralda reveals that trait in her character through her ability as a dancer, and music has been utilized by gypsies not alone for their amusement but to capitalize it in their predations either through obtaining money by fair donations or to make real thieving purpose. Thus they formed a large portion of that army of thieves and beggars ruled by Clopin and led by him in the great attack upon the forces of the crown when storming Notre Dame, which forms a memorable and thrilling scene in the pictured production.

5 Operations—15 years suffering with constipation—Kellogg's Bran restores health

Mr. Lansing's case is typical of thousands of others. He found permanent relief from constipation in Kellogg's Bran because it is ALL bran. Nothing but ALL bran can be 100 per cent effective. Read what he says:

Dear Sir: I have been afflicted with constipation for the past 15 years, and during that time I have been in four different hospitals and submitted to five different operations that were the result of constipation. I was getting so bad that every meal I ate soured on my stomach. Two months ago I was advised to eat your Kellogg's Krumbled Bran. I tried it, as I was trying everything I could hear of. From that day on I have never taken a physic. My stomach does not sour any more and my bowels move regularly morning and evening. Yours sincerely, Frank Lansing, 1206 Fairfax Ave., Mason, Ind.

For permanent relief, eat Kellogg's Bran regularly. Two tablespoons daily—in chronic cases, with every meal. It is guaranteed to bring results, or your grocer will return your money.

You will like the delicious nut-like flavor of Kellogg's Bran—so different from ordinary bran, which are unpalatable. Eat Kellogg's Bran with milk or cream. Sprinkle it over other cereals. Cook it with hot cereals. Try it in the recipes given on the package.

Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, is served by leading hotels and clubs in individual packages. Made in Battle Creek. Sold by all grocers.

THE SLIPPER OF RED BROCADE

BEGIN HERE TODAY

A novelist, seeking nocturnal adventure, leaves the ball room of the Marchioness of Drimling. While standing in the hallway leading to the Marchioness's room, he sees a woman in evening dress chasing a small, dark, cat-like creature. The woman's slipper offers him services and is amazed to be addressed as "No. 9."

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

I thought, "Now to tell her the truth." She could do me no harm. She might carry a weapon, but I was ready for her. Perhaps to save her... but, I don't know why, my courage failed me, or rather I realized that it was no good. Behind this smooth forehead lay an idea which had eaten up every other impulse. There was no moving her; I knew only too well how strongly women hold to an idea when they possess only one. So, instead, we talked of the brilliant night, where now the moon hung low like a pen of pallid jade. I found in Sylvia an unexpected poetic strain. She saw the future, when her cause had triumphed, as one when mankind would no longer suffer, when no child would go hungry, when no woman would weep, when no beast would be overladen. It was mad and beautiful, this dream. At last I couldn't bear it any more, and, turning to her said: "It's awful to think that inside 24 hours you will be as good as dead. And you're young, and you're so lovely. I think you're the loveliest creature I've ever seen. You make my heart melt."

She pressed my arm: "You're making love to me, aren't you? But I don't mind... Geoffrey. We haven't time to mind, we people. We shan't last long. I'm sad, too, to think that so soon you may die like me. Something goes wrong in my throat when I hear your voice."

We reached Lansdowne Passage and passed between the close walls. I could not help saying it: "Sylvia, do we love each other so soon?" "I don't know," she replied, after a moment. "I've never seen you before. I suppose you've just joined. What's the good of it, anyway?" Indeed, what was the good of it? We went silently up the steps into Berkeley Street. I saw a taxi crawl up. It drew up, waited for us.

"Good night," murmured Sylvia, extending her hand. I helped her in: "Don't go yet." "I must. Good night." She snatched her hand away; the driver opened the taxi door. Then Sylvia turned and ran back to me, leading me into the darkness under the narrow roof. As if gratifying a sudden desire, she flung her arms round my neck and pressed upon my lips a violent, desperate kiss. There was in her grasp some agony, and in her caress a purpose, as if thus she filled me with enthusiasm and fortitude.

I slept badly. The violent caress disturbed me; I don't think I loved Sylvia really; I don't think so now; now that another... but this I must tell in a later story. My excitement was so intense that I did not know what I wanted to do. Indeed, it was only when I reached Mivart's, a few minutes before one, that I knew I could not go on, that for a moment I had been bewitched.

"YOU HAVE BEATEN US," SHE SAID. "THE TYRANT MUST ESCAPE."

was a little flushed; the red mouth was smiling. For a moment I thought of going on. But I knew that was absurd. Now to shatter the crystal edifice of the dream; I said: "Sylvia, I hope this won't be too much of a shock to you, but I'm not what you think."

"What?" she said, in a strained whisper. "I'm not No. 9. I didn't exactly know what No. 9 was. No wonder you had not seen me before, and that you thought my lot had been drawn by proxy. By occupation I am a person of no occupation. Dancing, golf, and gossip make up my existence. I am fairly well off, the last thing I desire is the destruction of any emperor, or the overthrowing of the social order."

She was staring at me: "But you said you were..." "No. You said it." "But you called me No. 9!" I explained; her eyes were full of horror. She was like a little beast that is trapped. Only after a moment did she say: "But what became of the real No. 9?"

"I don't know. I suppose he was late. When we arrived there was nobody to meet him. I suppose he went back to the F. Committee." "Hush!" she cried. "Don't! Don't say that aloud!" Then she realized the situation. "I begin to understand. You are one of the gilded minions of the tyrants, the enemies. You took advantage of my difficulty. You're a..." "Indeed, Sylvia," I replied, rather nettled, "you're a strange Daniel to come to judgment over me, you, a professional murderer." I was rather rude, but one does not like being called a cad.

"Oh, words!" she replied with a sneer. "The only thing that I care about is that you, a man of your kind, should know our plans. Of course you'll go to the police. Why don't you have me arrested?"

"I'm sure I don't know, I ought to. But you're too attractive."

"You make me sick. Men are always like that to women, I suppose. Oh, what am I going to do? You know everything."

"Look here, Sylvia," I cried. "I may be a cad, but I'm not going to give you away. I shall, of course, let the Emperor of Berengaria know that henceforth he must be guarded, but I shall not have you arrested; you can go free if you like, and I hope this will be a warning to you, that you won't go on with this madness."

Then Sylvia went to the heart of the question: "I don't care what happens to me, but I care what happens to the comrades. You know our secret. Very well. You'll...?" She laughed: "Fool, that you are! Why did you meddle with such things? Don't you understand that within a day, whether I am arrested or not, within a day you will be removed?" Her tone was sad, but it grew angry: "I don't suppose that in another day you will be alive."

"Oh yes, I assure you I shall be alive. Your friends won't touch me. It's too risky. Don't laugh. Do not imagine that I've come here without a weapon. Last night, when I left you at Lansdowne Passage, I was, well, half crazy with love for you. But I still had curiosity. I told myself that your slipper could not have been taken very far by the dog. He would tire of his game. So I went back."

"You want back?"

"Yes."

"But I went back!" she shrieked in agony. "I had to find it. I had to. I would have gone to find it if they hadn't taken us into the house... I dared not tell the comrades. I hoped to find it... but I couldn't find it... Oh, I went half mad... I... couldn't find it."

"No wonder," I replied, "for I found it."

"In Half Moon Street."

"Oh, what a fool I was! I didn't think the dog would have gone that way. I went up Down Street. Oh, what shall I do?"

"Nothing, Sylvia, nothing. When I found your slipper, laugh at me if you like. I kissed it. As I looked at it closely, under the sole I found a document, of which here is a copy."

She took it and dropped it at once. "What are you going to do?"

"Nothing. You will not deny that this is a complete list of the names and addresses of the members of the F. Committee. More exactly they are not names, but numbers. Still, only the addresses matter, for I expect your friends are already suspect. I shall not have you arrested, but I have posted the document already to my solicitor. My instructions are that if I die by violence, or by accident, the paper is to be handed over to the police. Now, Sylvia, which shall it be? Will you leave me unmolested? or will you gasol all your friends? Will you let our foreign visitor alone? or do you prefer to hang? I will do nothing to me."

Tears formed in her eyes. She made a helpless gesture: "You have beaten us," she said. "The tyrant must escape, and you, too, must escape, I suppose. But do not think that you will turn us from our purpose."

We rose from the table. I did not reply. I knew that nothing could be done, that it was no use arresting her, for others would spring up after she fell. It was enough to have saved two lives, the Emperor's and mine. She waited politely while the cloakroom attendant gave me my hat and stick. He also gave me a small brown paper parcel which I held out to her: "Permit me," I said, "to return your slipper."

Another story of midnight adventure by W. L. George, "The Wax Lady," will appear in our next issue.

TO BE CLOSED CO-OPERATION

Veterans of World War and British Legion Now Are "Comrades in Peace."

Closer co-operation between veterans of the World War of the United States and Great Britain is indicated by the fact that the American Legion was represented at the annual convention of the British Legion and at the biennial meeting of the British Empire Service League.

Replying to a message sent by Alvin Owsley, American Legion national commander, to the British Legion, Sir Douglas Haig, head of the British organization, said:

"It seemed to me that your splendid words found an echo in the hearts of everyone present. To your wish, 'Let us be comrades in peace,' I hasten to assure you that that is the sincere wish of every member of the British Legion. The aims of our respective Legions seem to be identical for all practical purposes and I hope that by some means we English-speaking ex-service men may become more closely affiliated. Please convey to your colleagues of the American Legion the heartfelt thanks of the British Legion for your assurance of fellowship, which we cordially reciprocate."

Past National Commanders Hanford MacNider of Mason City, Ia., and Milton J. Foreman of Chicago represented the Legion at the British convention.

LEGION WARNING OF FAKES

Alleged Veterans' Publications Used to Appeal to Sympathy of Patriotic Citizens.

The sale of fake "veteran" magazines and publications has cost the public more than $5,000,000 within a period of fourteen months, according to information received by the American Legion which has issued a warning against the operations of promoters of the spurious publications.

Publishers often use the name "veteran" to persuade the public that former service men get part of the proceeds of sales. Their salesmen do not hesitate to use the disabled and wounded plea. Investigations by the Legion and other veterans' organizations and the Department of Justice have disclosed that entire proceeds of publications go into the pockets of persons who did not serve in the war, and who capitalize the patriotism of the American public and the reputation of World War fighters to enrich themselves.

Salesmen often peddle the publications with the plea of "help ex-soldiers"; "proceeds help disabled men"; "wounded myself in France, and cannot get a job." In some cases it was found to be the "game" for publishers to disown agents soliciting advance subscriptions. Other agents were found to have bought and worn "wound buttons" from private concerns. Many peddlers who have been arrested admitted that they were not former service men. By using the help-the-boys-who-fought-for-you plea, they have disposed of magazines, some at 25 cents a copy, their profit ranging from 17 to 19 cents.

In a number of cases salesmen have represented their publications as endorsed by the American Legion, which is untrue.

American Legion posts in all sections of the country are urged to give publicity to these fakes in order to protect patriotic citizens in their communities.

Visions of Great Minds.

SAYS LEGION BENEFITS TOWN

Disabled Veteran Declares Organization Demands Justice for Every Ex-Service Man.

"We knew it would be a benefit to the town to get a post of the American Legion here. The Legion deserves all the assistance that every ex-service man can give it, for I, as a disabled man, know that through that organization a disabled man can get justice."

This was the declaration of Frederick Graham, a veteran of the World War and of the Spanish-American war, who now resides in Edmonds, Wash. The town has no post of the American Legion, owing to a small number of ex-service men, and Graham has been suggested as one to start such a movement among the former soldiers in the community.

Graham wrote national headquarters of the Legion that he was unable to take up the organization work on account of his physical condition. He said that he was being cared for by the veterans' bureau, after his case had been presented by American Legion officials.

TO HONOR WORLD WAR HERO

Arkansas Legion Members Plan Fitting Tributes to Ex-Service Man in Unmarked Grave.

Arkansas members of the American Legion are assisting in plans for the Herman Davis Memorial Foundation in honor of Herman Davis, Arkansas' outstanding hero of the World War, who died in January from the effects of gas and is buried in an unmarked grave at Manila, Ark.

Plans of the foundation call for the erection of a suitable monument to his memory at Manila, and a similar monument on the lawn of the State War Memorial building at Little Rock. In addition, a scholarship will be endowed at the University of Arkansas, to be known as the Herman Davis scholarship.

A highway leading through the northern part of Mississippi county, through Manila and past the burial place of the young hero will be known as the Herman Davis Memorial highway.

Placed fourth on the list of two heroes of the war by General Pershing, Davis was always modest and reticent. He did not seek to capitalize his fame, but when the war was over returned to his native soil and again took up the ways of the simple life which he always had led.

Three Hundred Years Ago.

The first man to recognize the importance of roads in relation to progress was Lord Francis Bacon, wrote three hundred years ago. Three elements were necessary to the growth of a community—fertile soil, busy workshops and easy conveyance of men and things, from one place to another.

Lady-Slipper.

Three of the well-known varieties of the beautiful orchid found in the temperate zone are called the pink lady slipper, the yellow moccasin flower and the showy lady-slipper which is white with purplish pink or magenta stripes. These names have been given the flowers as they bear a curious resemblance to a slipper.

LEADER OF OVERSEAS BODY

Miss Louise Wells of Chicago is Re-Elected President of Women's Service League.

Miss Louise Wells of Chicago has been re-elected president of the Women's Overseas Service League, known as the Little Sisters of the American Legion because many Legion women are also members of the league, making for closer cooperation between the two organizations.

Members of the league were the Army and Red Cross nurses, Salvation Army lassies, the "Y" girls, signal corps girls, canteeners, librarians and entertainers who served America's fighting men in France. Many were gassed and wounded and more than 150 of them died of such plagues as trench fever and influenza. A few were killed in action.

Miss Wells entered the service from Los Angeles. She is the daughter of Arthur U. Wells, vice president of the Santa Fe railroad. After serving at

Miss Louise Wells.

Camp Upton, she went overseas as a canteen worker. At Glenoble, at Allevard-Le-Bains and at Lyon, she served as a canteen worker and with the entertainment forces. She organized the Los Angeles unit of the league, and later was president of the Chicago unit.

Speaking at a recent convention of the league, Brig. Gen. Charles D. Jones said:

"You never looked so good to me as you did in your souther uniforms and hats, wading through the mud and mire, tramping through the rain, serving hot chocolate for hours at a time in that country which, before we went over, we called 'sunny France.'"

Members of the American Legion are paid to the overseas women by the National Commander John G. Emery of Grand Rapids, Mich.

Pollen Carried Far by Wind.
Wind-blown pollen ("sulphur rain") is known to be carried far. Hesselblad, of the Swedish experiment station, reports a quite extensive rain of tree pollen on two fire ships 20 and 37 miles from shore; and the pollen of algae is known to have been carried even as far as 200 miles.

Just Tinkins.
Just Tinkins says one reason an eight-hour day seems so long is that it gets monotonous watchin' the clock.

Man Loses Hundreds Of Dollars

People who don't grow too fat are the fortunate exception. But if you find the fat accumulating or already cumbersome, you will be wise to follow this suggestion, which is endorsed by thousands of people who know. Ask your Druggist for Marmola Prescription Tablets and follow directions. One dollar is the price the world over. Get them from your own druggist or send price direct to Marmola Co., 4612 Woodward ave., Detroit, Mich. Be doing this you will be safe from harmful drugs and to be able to reduce steadily and easily, without starvation diet or the severe exercise.

YOU CAN FILL YOUR MARKET BASKET VERY EASILY HERE TOMORROW

We have gone over everything and there is a great supply of good things for your Sunday dinner menu.

There are a lot of things here that you did not expect and we have scoured the marts for some nice things for you.

Oh Boy, for a Good Old-Fashioned Snow!!!

Many sections of the country are as yet untouched by winter, even at this time of year. Snow is almost a stranger, and there have been no heavy falls to speak of. So, lest you forget what they look like, take a glimpse at the winter resort, Murrens, Switzerland. Photographed after a snowfall lasting 12 days and nights. Oh boy!

Honorably Discharged Aliens Are Eligible For Citizenship Till March 3

Honorably discharged aliens who served in the military or naval forces of the United States during the world war were given opportunity for expeditious naturalization in view of their service.

Provision for naturalization by means of such expeditious proceedings was made by the Act of Congress approved July 19, 1919 (41 Stat. 222). This law authorizes the naturalization of World War veterans of the above description without complying with many of the usual requirements for naturalization, such as a declaration of intention, proof of five years' residence in the United States, payment of the customary $400 fee, and the usual ninety-day wait before the granting of citizenship. As a condition to naturalization under this special statute the applicant must appear before a Naturalization Examiner with his honorable discharge and two identifying witnesses for preliminary examination.

Particular attention is invited to the provision in the act of July 19, 1919, that its benefits will continue in force only for a period of one year after the return of all of the American troops to the United States.

This one-year period will expire on March 3, 1924, by reason of the fact that the last of the American troops were returned to the United States on March 3, 1923.

After March 3, 1924, honorably discharged World War veterans will have to comply with the usual requirements for naturalization, in the same manner as aliens in ordinary cases. The purpose of this letter is to sound warning through you, to the ex-servicemen in your locality that if they wish to obtain the advantages of the act of July 19, 1919, before its expiration on March 3, 1924, they should get in immediate touch with the nearest U. S. Naturalization Examiner, Bernhard at Pittsburgh, so that the necessary arrangements may be made for that purpose.

The Best Plan.

Typist—The idea of your working steadily eight hours a day! I would not think of such a thing! Friend—Neither would I. It was the boss who thought of it.

Safe Fat Reduction

"I am sorry I did not hear of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy a few years ago, as it would have saved me several hundred dollars. Five years I suffered from indigestion and severe bloating. I grew worse all the time. My doctor said an operation would be all that could save me. I took a course of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy instead and for the past year have been entirely well." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One box will convince or money refunded. At all Druggists.

Why does your foot go to sleep?

—because it is placed in a strained position which prevents the blood from circulating properly. Therefore, due to lack of blood, it feels "asleep." Keeping the bowels active with Puretest CASTOR OIL helps to keep the whole system awake—it promotes that internal cleanliness so necessary for health.

Puretest Castor Oil contains all the needed cathartic elements, yet is free from any unpleasant taste. Fine for children and easy to give them.
